Foreword

Light is a swift messenger sent to us by tiny invisible worlds of atoms and from the enormous worlds of distant stars. Our daily life is ruled by the light given us from the sun. Rays from sunlight produce a source of energy so that all living things may grow and live. As the daily life of each individual becomes more complex and complicated, we need more energy and guidance to fulfill the future needs of the world.

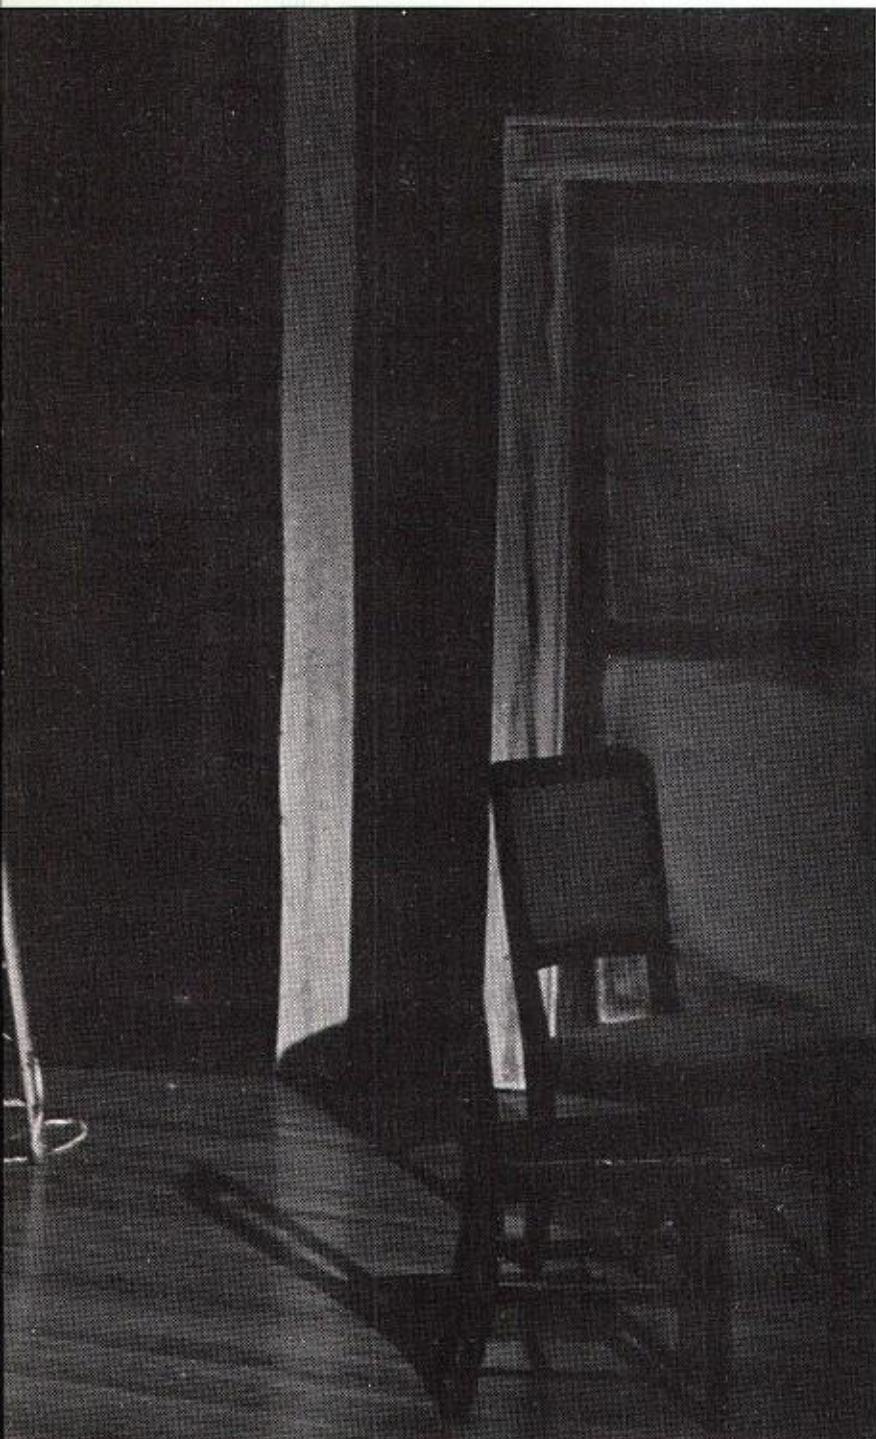

Each year we experience success, defeat, satisfaction, discontent, sadness, happiness, disappointment and grief. Once through these encounters of life, we receive the knowledge and courage to again face these occurrences with a new outlook.

Having light to guide us, the 1964 Blue M staff has had the privilege to work together throughout the entire year to produce a book which we hope you will find an accurate source of information concerning your past year of high school.

New goals were achieved, enrollment hit a new peak, changes in former extra-curricular activities were introduced and the building was expanded with the addition of new classrooms.

The 1964 Blue M features light—light coming from the small simple flame of a match, the commercialized lighting, to the light shining from the sun and that which guides our lives. Through this, the Blue M staff records the year 1964.

School Activities Begin As Fall Semester Opens

Each school day begins with the raising of the flag. However, between the beginning and closing hour, anything from the expected to the unexpected happens.

From the study in a private corner, in class or in the library, to the fun-filled activities of a thrilling sports' event or long awaited dance, every hour of a high school day possesses something that can never be replaced or forgotten.

When school opens in the fall, new courses are undertaken, new teachers stand at the front of the room and new faces are seen in the corridors. As the year progresses, each course, teacher and student becomes a familiar sight. At the end of the year, everyone is closer together working as one large unit.

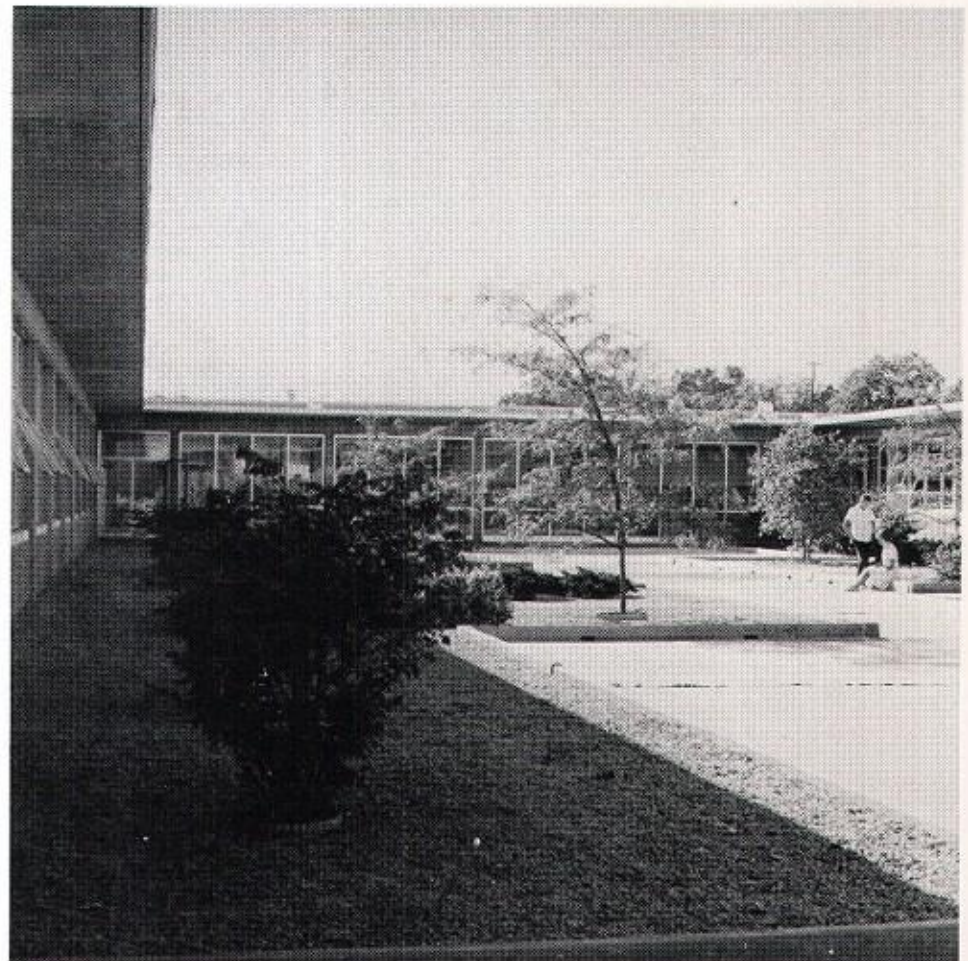

Whereupon the doors of a school year close and the flag is lowered for the last time of the year, each student will be further along on his path toward future life. Each person has climbed one more step, a step closer to his own personal goal.

New Wings Accommodate Increasing Enrollment

Reaching for a goal of one of the largest enrollments in the state, Kayettes begin their membership drive early in the fall.

Students stop at the concession stand after school to have a coke and visit with friends a few minutes.

Cooks must keep on their toes to see that all hungry students passing eagerly through the cafeteria line are fed.

Due to the closed noon hour all students must eat either a plate lunch or a sack lunch in the cafeteria.

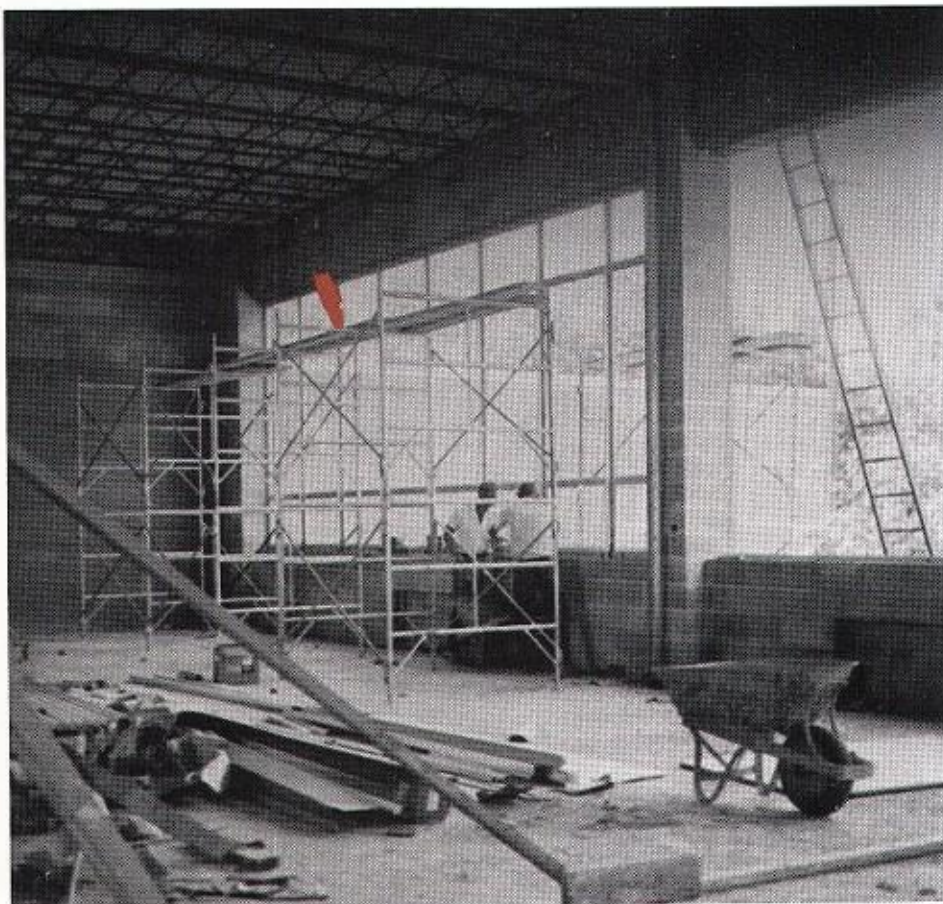

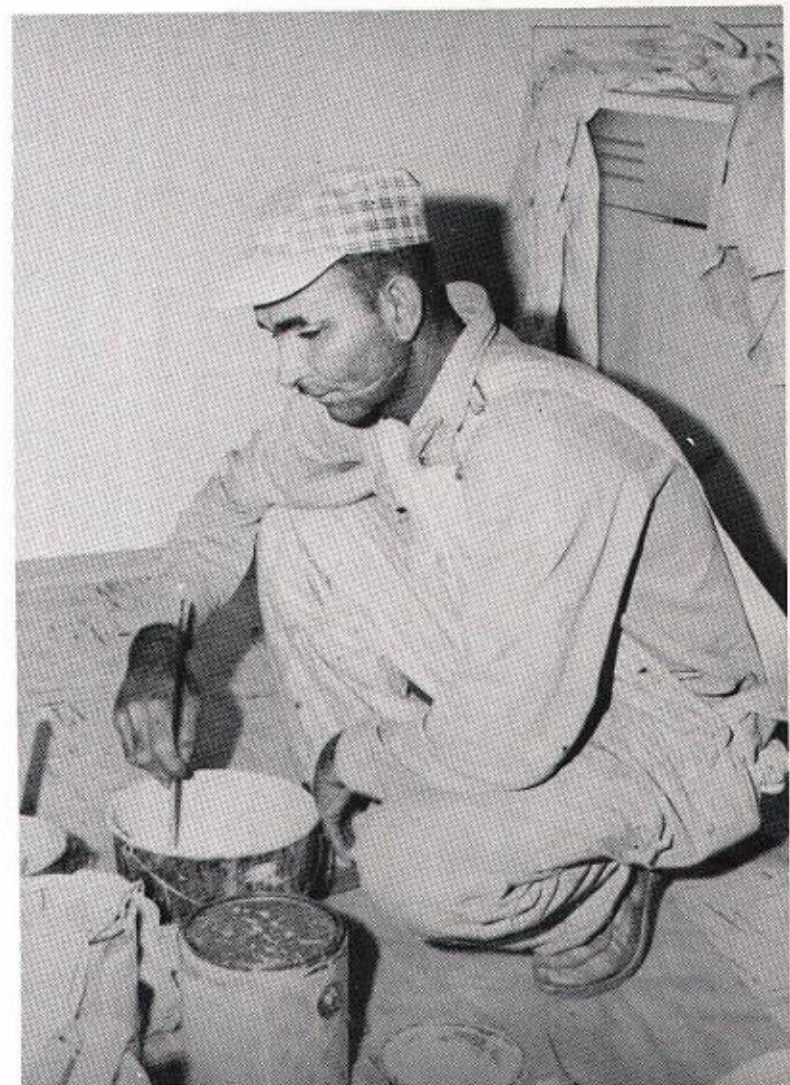

Assemblies are presented twice and students attend in split shifts due to large enrollment and limited seating in the auditorium.

"Hmm, pretty good," say Marilyn Jones and Jan Rupp as they compare grade cards.

Amidst a maze of ladders and scaffolds construction workers work toward completion of the new addition to the art room.

Students Look Back On Year Of Accomplishment

Linda Hooper, Agnes Van Rees, Ann Stonehocker, and Carol Wickham enjoy visiting at the new students' party.

Congestion often occurs in Manhattan high school's east parking lot as students head for homes or jobs after completing a busy school day.

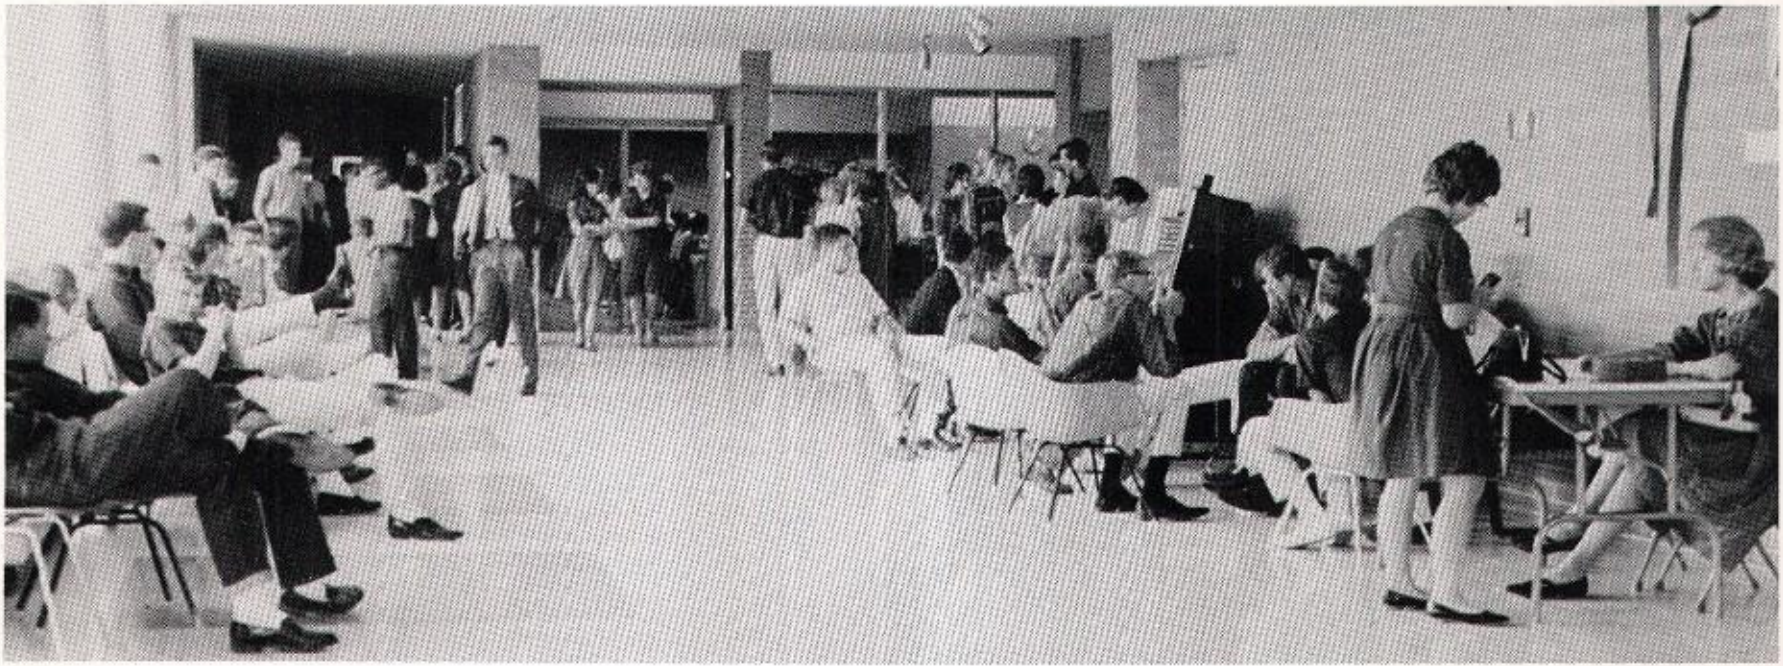

Nat Burroughs, Ann Hutchins, and Mary McManis buy their Blue Ms from Janet Herpich and Linda Ludden.

"It's a bit too big!" says Judy Dungan as Lana Shelby fits her into a band uniform.

Comfortable lounge chairs and a juke box are located in the main lobby for the relaxation of students before and after school and during the noon hour. Here several students gather around the juke box after lunch.

"Out to get some learnin'" a small dog marches through the doors of the high school. He's one student that really leads a dog's life.

A group of Blue Pepsters gather around the Indian in the gym lobby and play rhythm, a favorite pastime of many of the students.

Advisory Council

School Board Decides Educational Policies

The Board of Education serves as a policy making body for the Manhattan school system. Its functions are selecting the superintendent of schools, specifying long range policies for Manhattan area schools and seeing that transactions are carried out by the superintendent. The board serves as judicial and legislative body as well as an advisory council to other school administrators. Improvement of the instructional program for training staff is also a responsibility of the board.

All questions brought to the board are carefully considered and discussed. Because of increased population, the expansion and enlargement of schools continues to be a serious problem. New sites for an elementary and junior high were prospected. These should be under way by 1970. An educational center for administrative and curriculum activities will be built soon.

School board members are elected by district voters for a four year term. Three members are elected every two years. Elected last spring to the board were Dr. E. G. Heyne, Mr. Charles Musil and Dr. John Shupe. Serving their third year are Mrs. Arthur Groesbeck, president; Mr. Jule Thompson, vice-president; and Dr. R. K. Wallace. Dr. Shupe and Dr. Wallace represent the board on the Riley County Unification Board. Mrs. Claire Crumbaker serves as clerk and Mr. Larry Dufva, treasurer, is appointed by the board.

The school board meets monthly to develop policies for the Manhattan school system. Plans for new buildings, new teachers, and new training methods are developed here.

Principal

Mr. Bishop Provides Well Balanced Program

Serving as Manhattan high's principal for twenty-one years, Mr. Herbert H. Bishop has strived to widen the school's horizons so as to provide a well balanced program for every individual.

Main responsibilities confronting him are the development and improvement of instruction and also the maintenance of a strong program of extra-curricular activities. These duties include supplying teachers with adequate facilities, boosting students along with grades and refinement of the program to include courses for both the college and non-college bound students. The enlargement of the school had been under development for nearly three years.

Besides his job as principal, Mr. Bishop is the chairman of the activities committee of the Commission on Secondary School of the North Central Association. This capacity enables him to attend and participate in national conferences.

Before Mr. Bishop became principal, he taught math and physics at MHS. He received his BA degree at Kansas Wesleyan in Salina and MA degree in math at the University of Chicago.

This year, he continued his work with contractors and moved into a new home during Christmas vacation. Within the community, Mr. Bishop has been active in church and other service activities. Reading Perry Mason novels and watching Perry and Defenders rate high with him. During summer months, he gardens and raises "prize" flowers.

Counselling and advising students on problems and future plans takes a large part of Mr. Bishop's time.

Superintendent

Mr. Robinson Provides Education Facilities

Providing for the best public schools in the state for Manhattan youth and the community is the main goal of Mr. W. C. Robinson, elected executive of Manhattan public schools.

As superintendent, he maintains leadership and management in areas of the fiscal budget; development of the building program for school plant and maintenance; personnel-selection staff, supervision instruction, curriculum and evaluation; research in all areas of transportation, and speaking appointments.

In addition to his position as superintendent, Mr. Robinson serves on the executive board of the Kansas Association School Administrators and on the advisory council of the state board educators. Duties in the community include being on the Board of Directors for Chamber of Commerce and vice-president of Rotary.

Before serving Manhattan, Mr. Robinson served as principals of elementary, junior and senior high schools and superintendent in other communities. He received his MA degree at Columbia University and PhD and AB degrees at Washburn University.

Mr. Robinson, as Superintendent of Manhattan public schools, seeks to provide excellent educational facilities.

Manhattan senior high receives much of Mr. Robinson's attention in his daily administration of the public schools.

Administration

Clerical And Supervision Duties Are Performed

As administrative director, Mr. Ralph Rogers was responsible for supervising and scheduling the general curriculum of the school. In addition, he directed extra-curricular activities, hallway activities and assisted Mr. Bishop with regulation of students.

Manhattan high had three secretaries making up the clerical staff this year. Miss Barbara Murphy was head secretary in the main office. Her main responsibilities were keeping up with Mr. Bishop's correspondence and helping him with calendar appointments. Being in charge of the main office, she also performed the clerical duties there. Each morning, it was her duty to read the daily announcements.

New to the office this year was Mrs. Patricia Shonyo. She filled in the newly created position of attendance clerk. She checked tardies and absences along with other secretarial duties.

Mrs. Barbara Jenkins moved from the main office to the health and counseling center. It was her duty to supervise over this area and the conference room.

Counselors

Guidance Directors Aid And Counsel Students

Serving as girls' and boys' counselors for Manhattan high, Mrs. Louise Langford and Mr. Bryce Todd were always eager to help the student. They were in charge of the testing programs for the students preparing for future education.

Mr. Todd, director of guidance, assisted seniors as they were choosing the preferred universities and colleges. Individual conferences aided the student as he could learn of more available scholarships best suited for his personal desires.

Mrs. Langford talked with many students before their senior year. These personal interviews helped fill out over-all records of the individuals. She also contacted girls as different special girl events approached.

When tests came back, both counselors were at hand to discuss the results and compare them with previous scores. At this time, many students had the opportunity to look at all their records from their first grade through their high school days. Progression of past school work and possibilities for the future were perceived.

The counselors were continually willing to give advice to students as they often came with various problems and questions.

Mr. Todd and Mrs. Langford, counselors, pause during the day to discuss scholarship opportunities for seniors.

Dianna Hileman and Nancy Cave stop in the office for a card readmitting them to class following an absence.

Mrs. Shonyo, as does all of the office staff, keeps track of daily attendance and willingly offers assistance to all students.

Mr. Gresham, director of curriculum in secondary schools studies available courses and makes recommendations for improvements.

Mrs. Dohm, school nurse, takes care of the immediate health needs of students and teachers.

Seldom Seen

Public School Directors Assist MHS Welfare

Some directors of the public schools are seldom seen, but their tasks aid the welfare of the school and its advancements. Although only seen at times, their importance cannot be neglected.

Mr. Robert Gresham, director of secondary curriculum, is in charge of providing new methods, aids and advancements in Manhattan schools. The development of advanced science and math courses for the junior and senior high are discussed between Mr. Gresham, teachers and principals.

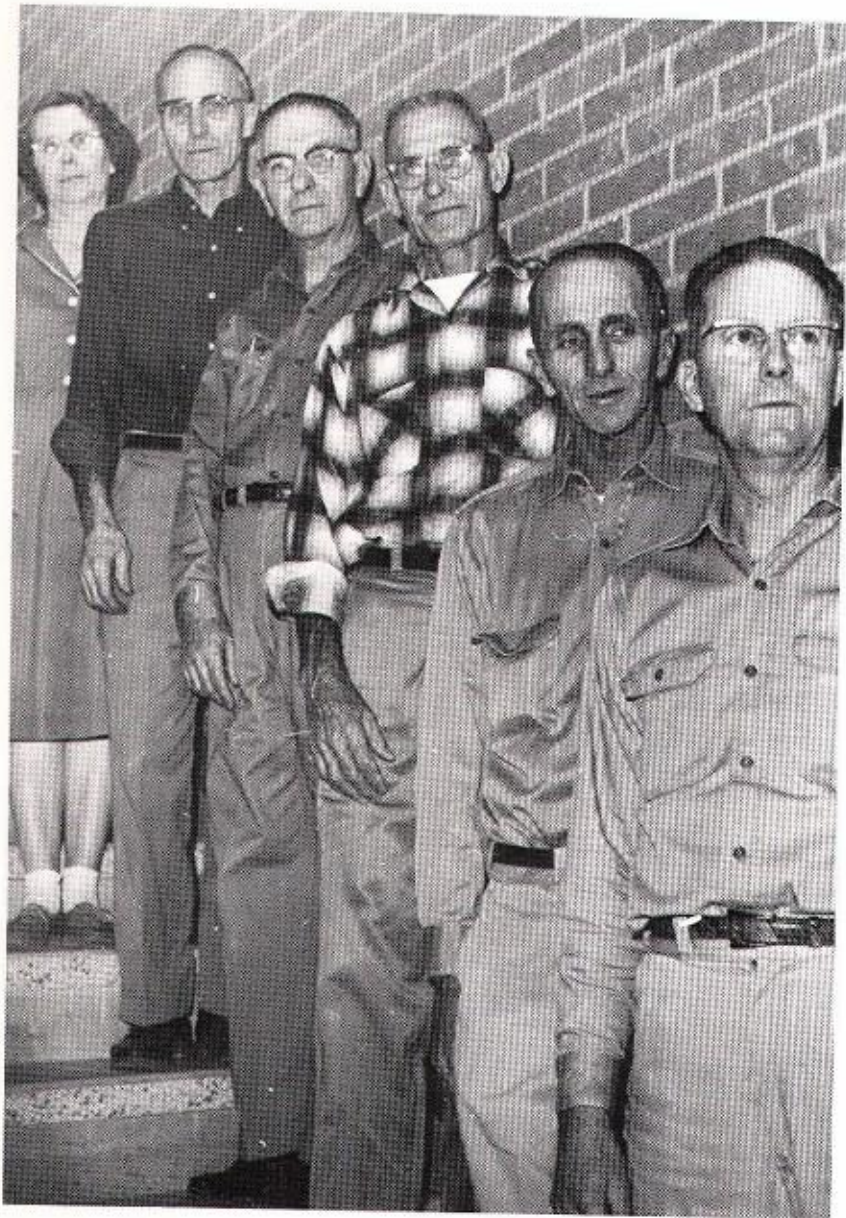

Serving as school nurse for the junior and senior high was Mrs. Carol Dohm. She was stationed at the high school during the morning. Also as her responsibilities, she conducted the dental, eye and hearing tests at the school.

Mr. J. W. Taylor continued his services as audio-visual education coordinator. His responsibility included the care and demonstration of films, projectors, tape recorders and record players used by the faculty. Mr. Taylor assisted teachers throughout the Manhattan public schools.

Visual education supervisor, Mr. Taylor, threads the film projector specially made for daytime classroom use.

Behind The Scenes

Cooks And Custodians Maintain High School

An important part of MHS often unseen by the students was the cafeteria staff. These women worked together to plan and prepare nutritious meals for the rest of the school. Working in the cafeteria under the supervision of Mrs. Lucille Caughron were Mrs. Helen Axelton, head cook and server; Mrs. Sophia Rosell, assistant cook and server; Mrs. Nila Hines, head baker; Mrs. Bernice Brooks, assistant cashier; Mrs. Edythe Porter, salads; Mrs. Helen Sweeny, assistant salads; Mrs. Clara Coffman, vegetables and server; Mrs. Marie Pottenger, dishroom; Mrs. Pearl Johnson, dishroom supervisor; Mrs. Lucy Cathcart, bookkeeper; Mrs. Irene Feuerbacher, cashier and Mrs. Marlene Brooks, server.

Keeping the floors clean, restrooms neat and blackboards free of chalk were the custodians. Filling out these tasks were Mr. Ernest Vincent, head custodian; Mr. Carl Eppler, Mr. Tom Johnston, Mrs. Alberta Smith, Mr. Lyle O'Neil, night watchman and custodian; and Mr. Butch Dettmer, cafeteria custodian.

Studios Atmosphere

New Addition Enlarges And Improves Library

During the summer months, the library expanded with the result of more books, more magazines and more study places. Returning students were confronted with a window rather than the usual door. Once inside, the check out desk had been moved from its usual position. Individual carrells had been installed for private study. There were now more bookshelves in new places.

With the expansion, Manhattan high was able to buy more books and increase magazine subscriptions. More wishes of the student could be fulfilled. The reference work area was enlarged and made more convenient. Magazines, reference materials and encyclopedias were all placed in that one area.

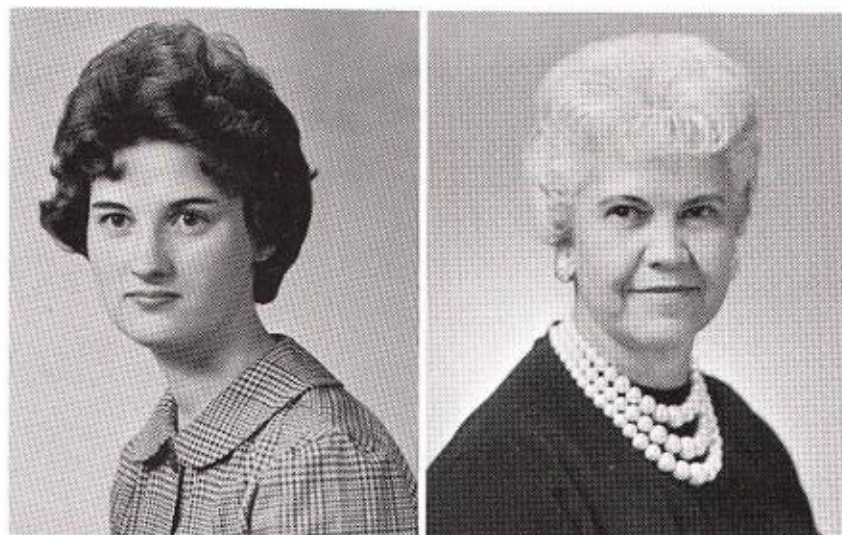

Miss Martha Stucky, librarian, and Miss Barbara Kammerlohr, assistant librarian, were always at hand to help students find the book or reference they desired. Assisting them were student librarians. Also to help the student, lists of books pertaining to certain subjects were given to individual teachers. With these people and information to rely on, the library furnished an adequate place for MHS students to widen their knowledge, look for adventure, or catch up on current happenings.

Students take advantage of the expanded facilities in the new addition of the library which opened this September. Individual study alcoves, additional book stacks, and increased floor space are included in the new features.

Required Course

Aims Of MHS English Aid Speech And Writing

Speaking and writing with accuracy and clarity, interpreting and understanding others' works and ideas were aims of the MHS English department.

Teaching junior English, Mrs. Grace Ahlschwede believed in stressing writing composition and vocabulary. Carrying out this belief, she had her students write a minimum of one theme a week. Her literature classes took a chronological study of American literature. This also included the reading and discussion of an American novel.

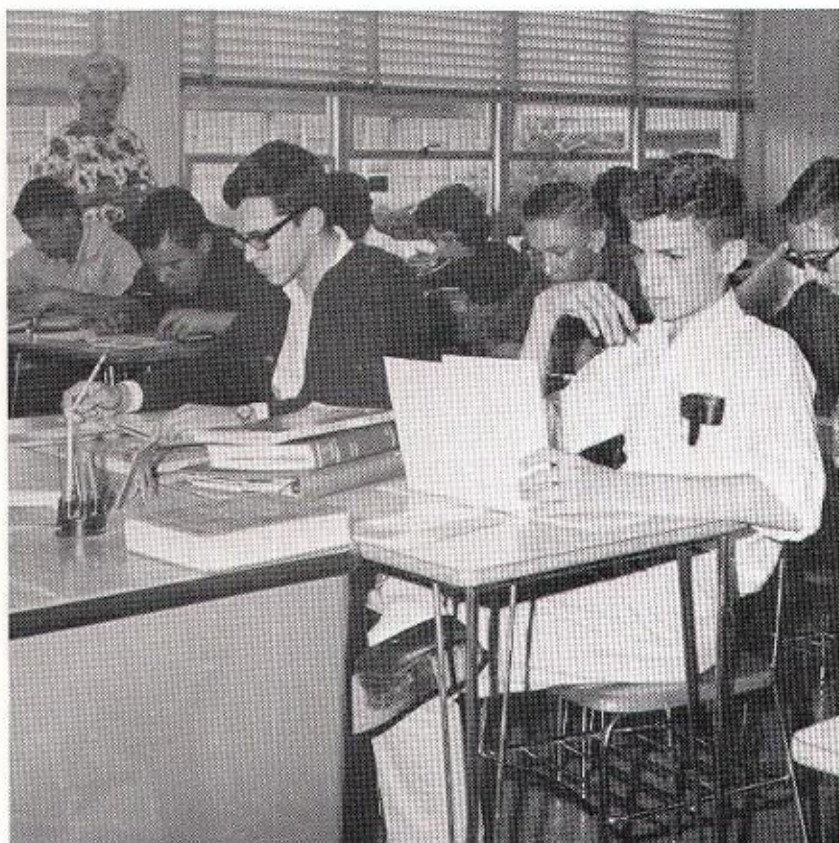

Mrs. Mary Douglas also taught junior English, following a similar outline as Mrs. Ahlschwede. However, most of her day she conducted classes of reading. This course enabled the student to concentrate and improve his reading skills and abilities.

As sophomore English instructors, Mr. Virgil Haas and Miss Anna Marley had the same task. Fundamentals of the basic structure of the English language was learned and reviewed. Sentence structure was especially emphasized. Themes, vocabulary words and book reports prevailed as in all English courses. Sophomore literature was a general course taking in different phases of literature of the past and the present. It was not specialized as were the junior and senior courses.

Under the critical eye of English teacher, Miss Marley, Paul Bosch analyze the construction of some sentences.

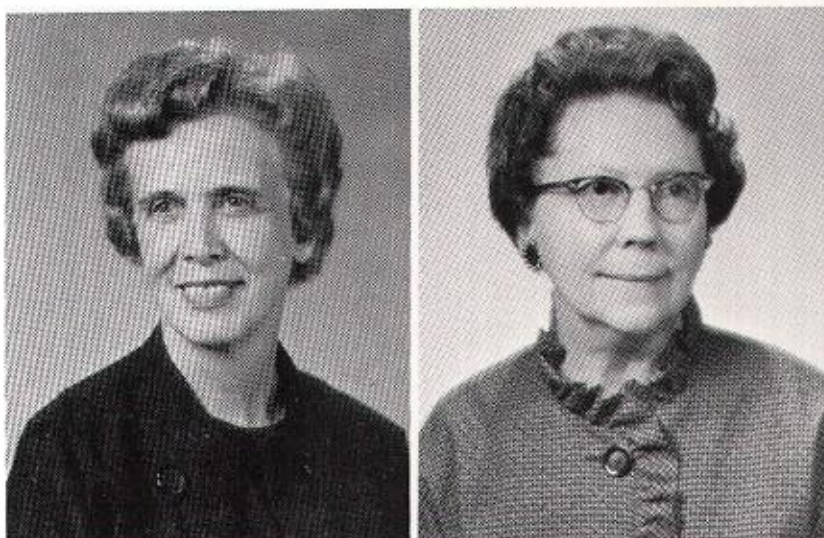

A junior English class tests their reading skill as part of a special reading project begun by Mrs. Douglas.

Charles Dicken's PICKWICK PAPERS takes the spotlight as Mrs. Railsback leads a class discussion of the novel.

Prepares For College

English Classes Stress Vocabulary And Essays

Mrs. Helen Railsback teaches junior and senior English. In her junior class, she stresses vocabulary work, writing, and extensive reading.

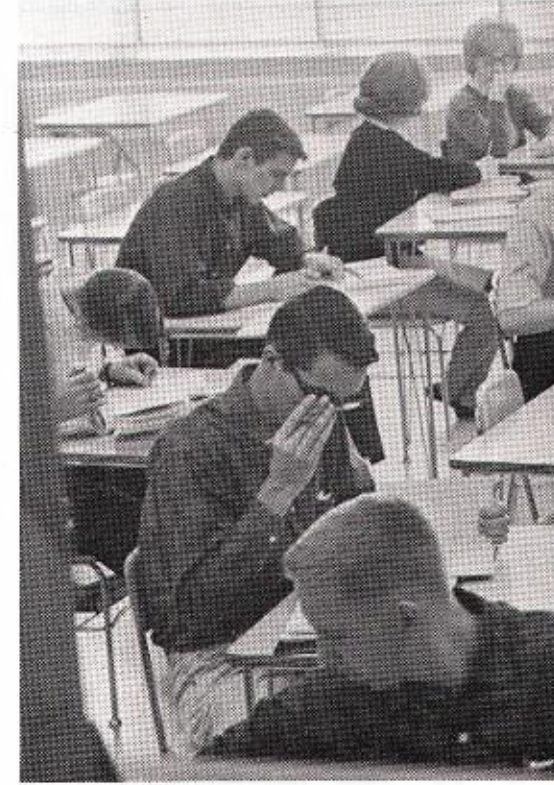

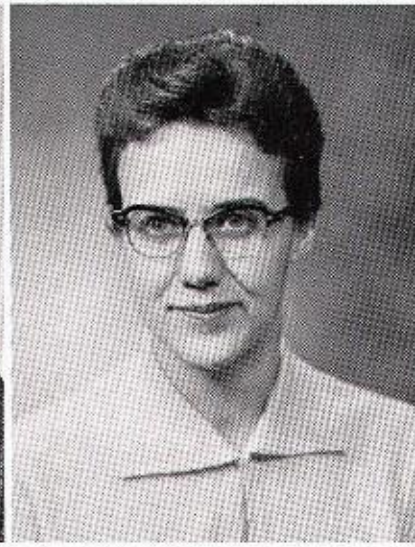

Senior English classes devote much of their time to writing. Composition classes write many original essays, short stories and themes. In the literature course of study, English stories, poems and essays are discussed orally and analyzed.

Teaching senior English, Mrs. Mildred Sykes believes in fully preparing her students for college work. She stresses the importance of oral work and the expression of one's own ideas.

Senior English is an elective course but most seniors, recognizing their need for English proficiency, take it.

Mr. John Buller—BS, Bethel College; Hi-Y

Mrs. Janis Coles—BS, Iowa State University; Future Teachers of America

Mr. Conrad Dean—BS, Kansas State University; Student Council

Mathematics

Old And New Methods Teach Basic Principles

Five hours of senior math kept Mr. John Buller on his toes this year. First semester, college algebra was undertaken by the students. Much of this work was a review with the latter part of the term learning new phases of the course. Basic functions of trigonometry were explained second semester.

Triangles, lines and angles continue to be basic elements in the instruction of Mrs. Janis Coles, geometry teacher. Through the study of this particular aspect of mathematics, students learn to reason and think in a logical method. They discover that both inductive and deductive reasoning go together when solving problems. The logic involved in geometry carries over in all phases of learning. Mrs. Coles also has her students prepare special reports during the second term.

New to Manhattan high faculty this year, Mr. Conrad Dean conducted classes of geometry and second year algebra. To help convey basic understanding of math, he made use of many visual aids such as the overhead projector, transparencies and various models. His geometry students prepared a special report on a problem or historical person concerning the course.

Offering Jeanine Davis an explanation concerning the proof of a geometric theorem is the teacher, Mrs. Coles.

This candid view from the corridor windows reveals students intent on meeting the challenge of senior math.

Algebra

Equations Are Mastered By Review And Practice

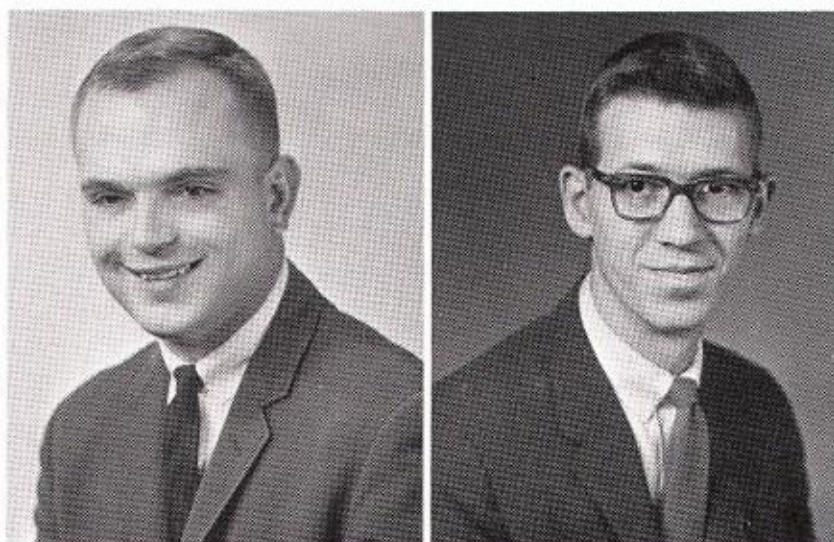

This year, Mr. Raymond Hower taught only second year algebra classes. Very basic fundamentals were reviewed and practiced the first part of the year. Helping the students to better comprehend the subject matter, Mr. Hower had them work many problems on the blackboard. This way, mistakes could be more easily detected by the individual. Equations and basic essentials were mastered. Word and thought problems challenged students of their newly acquired knowledge.

Mr. Hower offers individual help to Mary Larsen and Tina Pederson on an algebra problem during the study period.

Mr. Dean places a transparency in the new overhead projector to illustrate various principals of mathematics.

Biological And Physical

MHS Offers Introductions To The Many Sciences

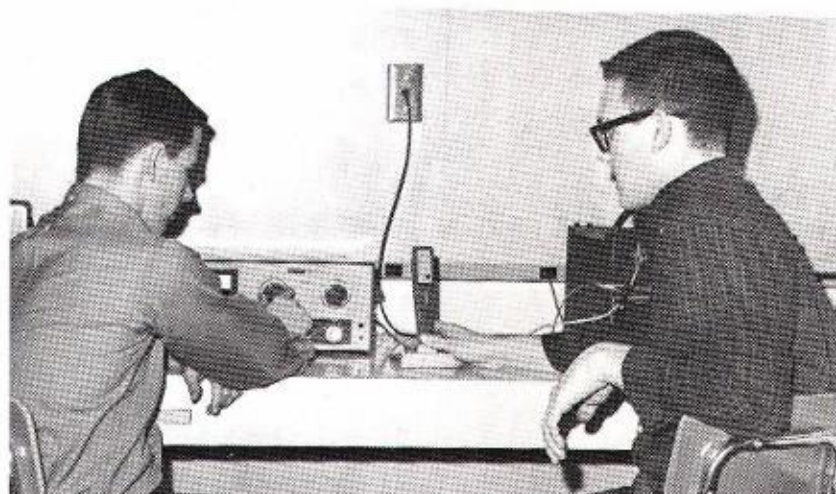

Filling the capacity of chemistry instructor, Mr. Clark Bair taught four classes. His students studied a science which dealt with the structure and composition of materials and the changes these compositions undergo. Mr. Bair also instructed a general science class for students wishing to take biology who had not already taken this prerequisite.

Mr. John Whittington instructed the physics courses. His advanced class took advantage of the new science wing. Mr. Whittington also helped the students interested in working in the amateur radio room.

Mrs. Sheila Cunningham and Mr. Don Tyler taught the subject of biology. Students had an introduction to botany and zoology. Dissection of small organisms, the use of a microscope and field trips enhanced the learning of individuals.

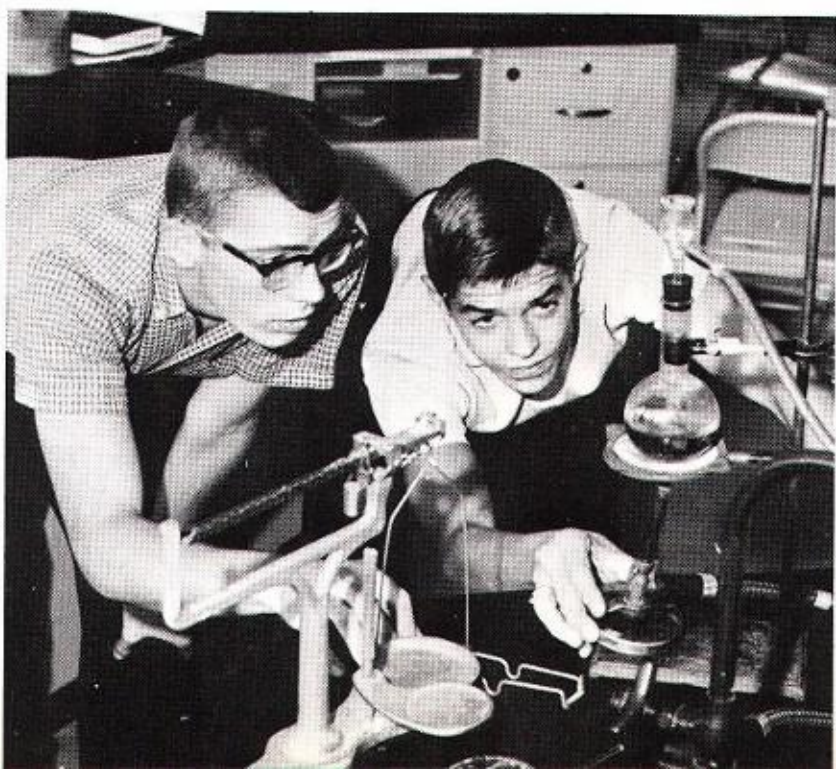

Mrs. Allabelle Stonehocker conducted classes of general science and biology. The general science course prepares students for the other biological and physical sciences taught at MHS.

The science wing opened in the fall was only put in partial use this year. The electronics lab, a live animals room and the other laboratories will be used to full capacity next year.

American History students get an over-all picture of reasons for their country's past under Miss Berger.

Pupils Gain Understanding

History Relates Past Happenings To Present

Mr. Vernon Barnes taught three elective subjects this year. Students in world history became more acquainted with past happenings pertaining to the world and how they affect us today. International relations gave students a better understanding of the correlation between nations. Debate students had the opportunity to gain confidence through speaking, in addition to the comprehension of a controversial subject. They participated in many debates throughout the state.

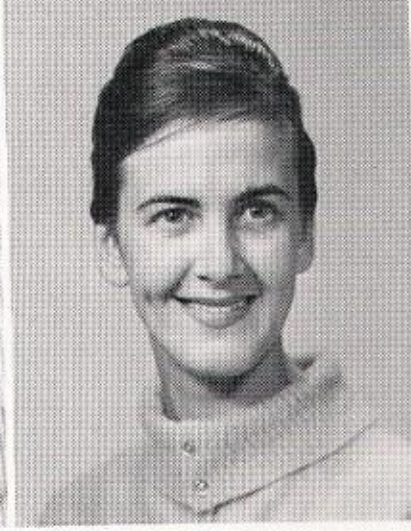

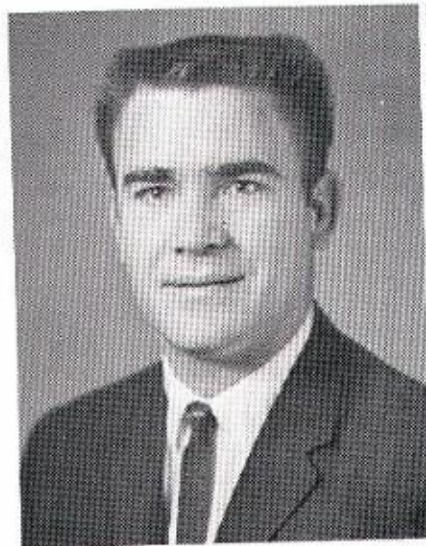

All seniors had Mr. Ward Bayles for the required constitution course. This included a detailed study of the United States government as stated in the Constitution. Along with the text work, a weekly newspaper, the American Observer, was undertaken.

Miss Marjorie Berger taught American History, a required junior subject. Students studied from the beginning of America, through all events of the molding of America, to the present day situation. Class discussion, maps and outside references were helpful and useful to each students' learning. Aiding the juniors' knowledge of today's history, the newspaper, Weekly News Review, was studied and discussed.

American government and the Constitution behind it are explained by Mr. Bayles as he lectures to his class.

Students Analyze Problems

Personalities And World Are Studied By Many

Mr. H. Stanley Crawford taught two academic courses. In American History classes, required junior course, oral discussion, films and tests were prevalent. American problems, elective senior course, informed students of all problems of today's living, from self to that of the world. Mr. Crawford was also one of the athletic coaches.

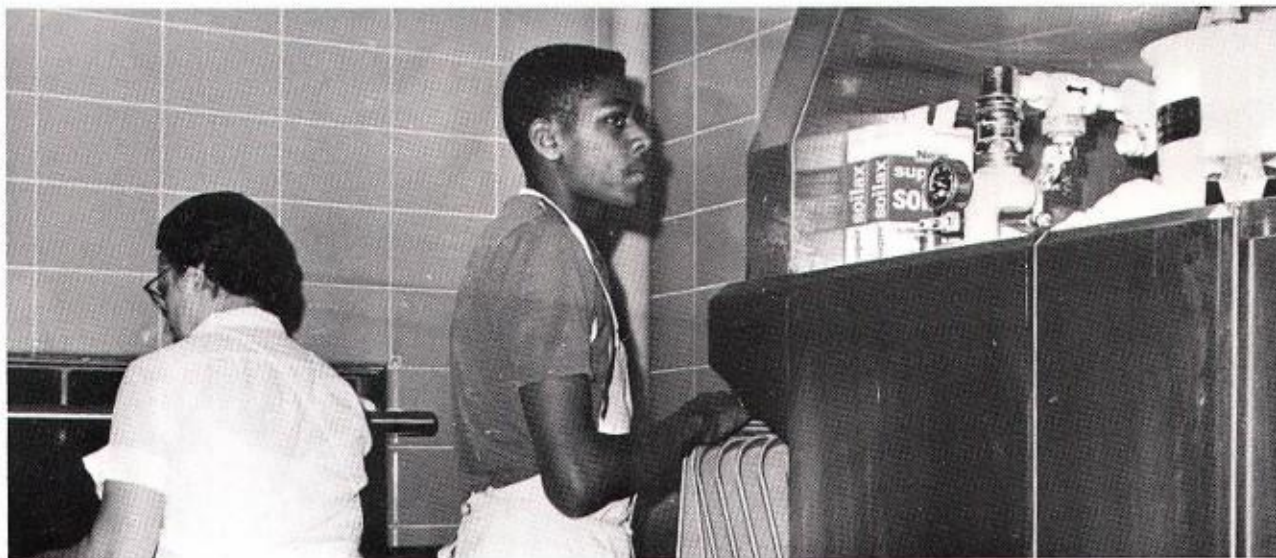

Also teaching American History was Mrs. Jeanette Eddy. Her line of instruction followed the similar pattern of other history teachers.

Mrs. Ann Johnston traveled from classroom to classroom as she taught three different courses. Her economics class learned about the conditions and laws influencing production, distribution and the consumption of wealth. At the end of the term, each student prepared a research paper concerning a phase of economics. Psychology students acquired the knowledge of how people act, behave and learn in connection with their environment and heredity. Completing this course, many pupils better understood themselves and others. Film strips and movies supplemented the study. World geography gave students the knowledge of other lands; their terrain, man and his industries.

James Dorsey works in the cafeteria during the lunch hour as a student enrolled in the two hour block course in cafeteria work gaining vocational instruction.

Home Economics

Girls Prepare To Be Future Homemakers

Mrs. Marilyn McConnell and Miss LeRoyce Johnson both taught clothing classes. In the first year class, girls made fundamental garments starting with a blouse and skirt. They also learned how to select suitable materials and styles, and care for wardrobes. Advanced clothing students made suits, coats and formal dresses. While making all of these garments, the girls learned many "tricks of the trade" which made their sewing go more quickly with less difficulty.

Miss Johnson also taught the foods course. Girls acquired a better understanding of human nutrition and put it into use by planning proper diets. Besides learning about "American cooking", students also studied foreign cookery and cake decorating.

Another course taught by Miss Johnson was home living. Topics of marriage, child care, home decoration and management, and family relations were included in the study. Girls actually planned a wedding by selecting dress materials, place settings and cost. They also made complete house plans when designing their homes.

Mrs. Lucile Caughron taught a course in cafeteria. These girls aided the cooks in preparing, serving and accounting of food. In addition, the sanitation safety techniques of the preparation and serving of food were learned.

Arts Department

Art And Drama Classes Learn New Techniques

New to MHS, Mr. Maurice Berggren instructed all of the art courses. School productions also kept him busy as he helped design and work on stage sets.

Art classes available to the students this year were architectural-industrial design, commercial art, design and composition, metal crafts and enameling, ceramics and sculpture, drawing and painting.

To aid the students in their work, the art room expanded, and its size was doubled. More courses and conveniences will be in action next year.

Mr. Maurice Roberts instructed the drama and speech part of the arts department. In addition to this task, he directed all of the dramatic productions.

Taking dramatics and acting involved much time and work spent on acting and properties connected with the stage. Besides memorizing readings and duet scenes, a make-up course was taken. The main project for the year was to construct an actual model set of some three-act play. The design, color scheme and furniture arrangement was entirely up to the individual.

Another dramatics course, stage craft, was set up for those who especially interested working behind stage. These individuals assisted with back stage work of productions and learned all technical chores involved.

Mr. H. D. Caine—BM, Drake University; MS, Kansas State University

Vocal, Instrumental

New Groups Are Added To Music Department

The music department expanded its horizons with the addition of more groups and classes. Mr. Larry Boye directed the choral groups. This year, a mixed chorus of sophomores and juniors and Pop's Choir, seniors, were added to the curriculum. Robed Choir, Treble Clef, boys' and girls' clubs also took a great amount of Mr. Boye's time. Music theory was also offered for those interested in learning the fundamentals of music composition.

Mr. H. D. Caine conducted an all-string orchestra this year. Four days of the week, the strings would practice by themselves and members of the band would join them to work on selections that needed brass and wind instruments on the other day.

Mr. Lawrence Norvell and Mr. David Frey were in charge of the marching band during football season. Concert band was divided into two groups. Mr. Norvell directed the symphonic band. These musicians worked on more advanced selections and numbers.

Mr. Frey conducted the varsity band. Fundamentals and easier selections were played. This band aided in giving students more confidence and skill when sequestered from the others.

Many groups and ensembles gave students the opportunity to advance themselves and have fun.

Mrs. Alma Hemphill—BS, Kansas State Teachers College of Emporia; Kayettes, Junior Classical League.

Miss Rosalie King—BS, Kansas State Teachers College of Emporia; Spanish Club.

Vocabulary and consequent translation are important fundamentals learned by the first year Latin students.

Latin, Spanish

Foreign Languages Form Foundation For English

Mrs. Alma Hemphill taught the Latin classes. Latin, although an unspoken language, serves its purpose as being the foundation for other languages. Many of its characteristics can be found in the English language of today. Latin students were also members of the Junior Classical League.

In addition to her Latin classes, Mrs. Hemphill also taught sophomore English. These students reviewed the parts of speech and sentence structure.

Joining the MHS faculty this year was Miss Rosalie King, Spanish instructor. She taught classes from the first year level to that of the fourth year.

Basic fundamentals of the language and simple conversations were learned in first year. At the end of the year, students were able to converse with each other by using a simple dialogue. Second year pupils studied the more complex parts of the sentence and worked with more difficult conversations. Third and fourth year students became more fluent by doing more conversations and giving reports in Spanish.

In accordance with the Spanish language, facts about Spanish-speaking countries, Spanish culture and customs were discussed. Tape recorders, records and films were helpful in aiding the instruction of Miss King.

John Bellman and Shirley Ford gain self confidence while reciting and tape recording Spanish dialogues.

New Language Labs

Tape Recordings, Films Aid French Instruction

Mrs. Floy Koon instructed the second and third year French courses. These students increased their knowledge of the country and of the language through practice and study. Third year classes rarely spoke English during their class study.

Miss Deanna Mickey taught the first year classes and one second year class of French. The fundamental parts of the language were learned by first year students.

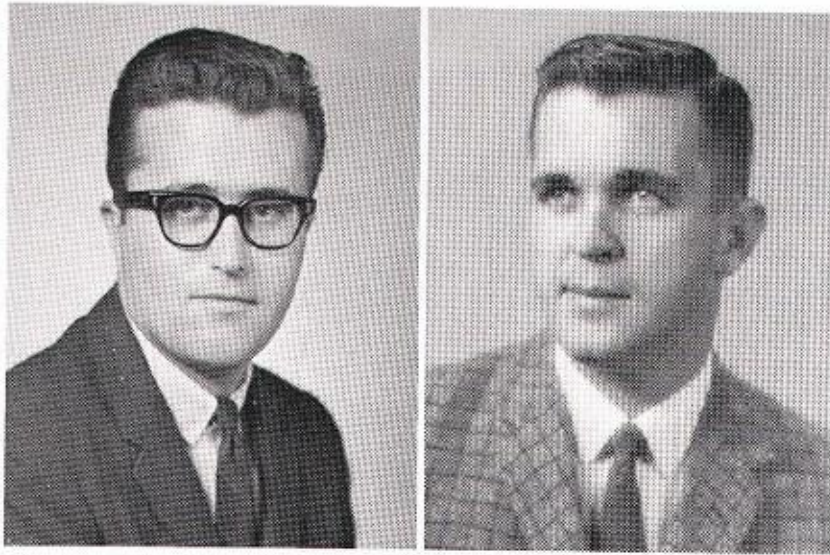

Both Mrs. Koon and Miss Mickey had many of the same aiding techniques in their teaching. Films in French, tapes, newspapers, records and the use of tape recorders were beneficial in their course of instruction. Students also had the opportunity to work with the language labs.

Next year, the new wing facilities will be properly hooked up and these conveniences will be available for use.

Practical Experience

Classes Master Typing, Attain Business Skills

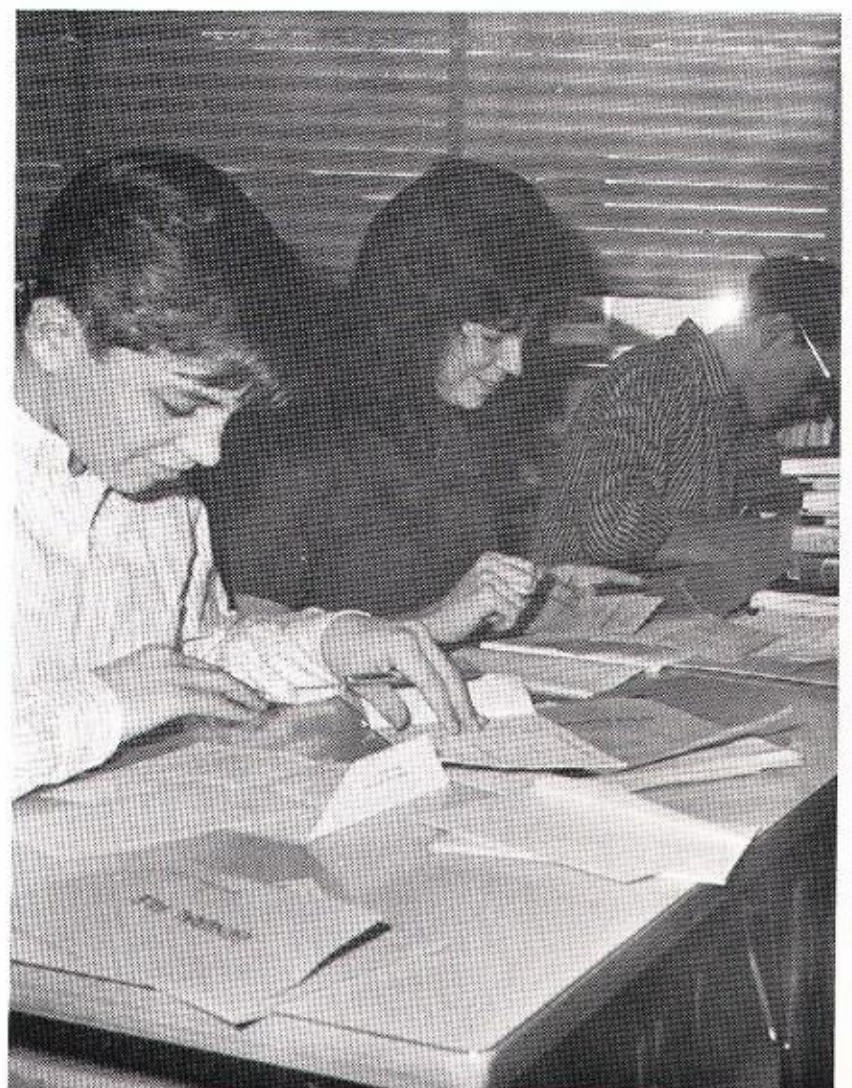

Today as typing is becoming more important and useful, many students were found tapping the keys under the supervision of Mr. Robert DeBruyn. Individuals practiced simple skills and soon increased their skill and accuracy. First and second year and personnel typing courses were offered.

Facts of the business world found in bookkeeping and business principles and laws were instructed by Mr. Phillip Johnston. These students learned accounting and other business functions. By taking these courses, students gained the knowledge enabling themselves to better adjust to life at home and in the community.

Connie Musgrove has learned that practice, practice and more practice is the key to becoming a good typist.

Three girls learning to operate an adding machine are instructed by Miss Snyder in office practice class.

Business students learn and practice many useful principles, which prepare them for the business world.

Miss Snyder's shorthand students must keep up on daily assignments to master the skills and then take dictation to develop speed needed to obtain a secretarial job.

Important Hour

Study Hall Provides Time For Homework

Acting as study hall supervisor, Mr. Harry Livermore had a full time task. Some of his classes were over 100 in size. Some students studied while others found different ways to pass the time. An individual enrolled in study hall to study must maintain this determination to accomplish his feat.

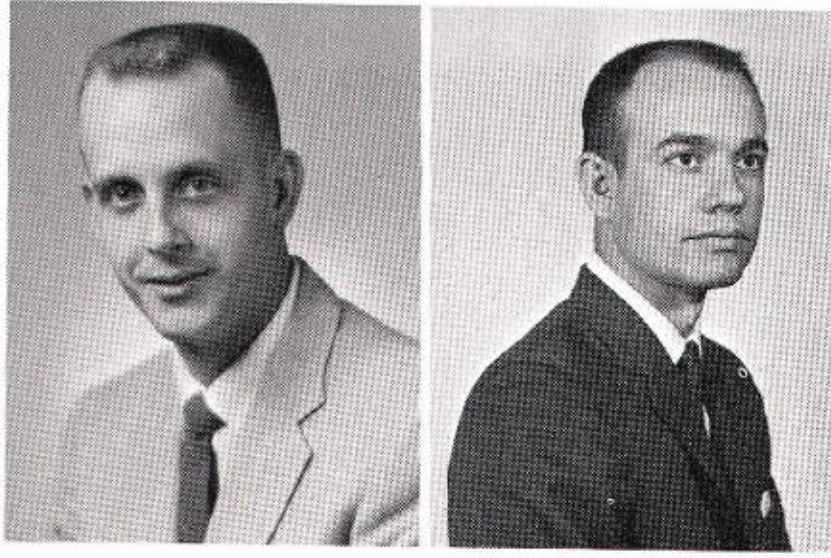

Skills especially helpful to future secretaries were taught by a new faculty member, Miss Virginia Snyder. Techniques of shorthand and fundamentals of office were performed. Learning these skills took many hours of long tedious work. Girls in the office practice had a two hour course. Dictations and the operation of various machines were included.

Mr. Livermore lends a helping hand to Bill Nesmith, Marty Coppersmith and Bob Bowser during Study Hall.

Students pass from study hall after an hour of brushing up on daily assignments and reviewing for future tests.

Useful Work

Industrial Arts Prepare Students For Vocations

Industrial art courses gave students a place to either relax and take out pressures by the useful work of the hands or to help prepare for a future vocation. "F" wing was the site where the process occurred.

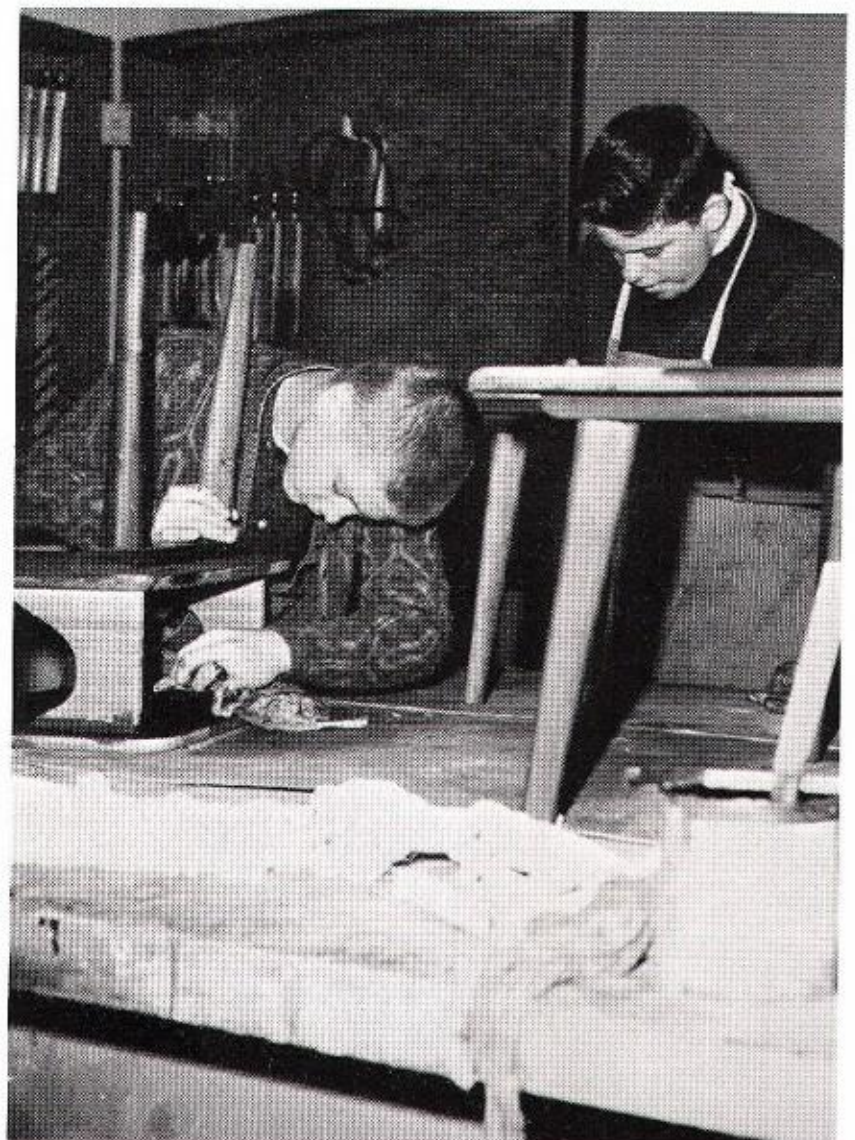

Proficiency in the mechanical arts was practiced in auto mechanics classes instructed by Mr. Charles LaMaster. Many hours were spent under a car with greasy hands and overalls. Boys oiled cylinders, ground valves and worked on many intricate parts of the engine and other sections of today's automobile. Students were encouraged to further their knowledge by buying parts for cars and repairing their own.

Numerous skills with saw and hammer were performed in Mr. Arthur Post's woodwork and carpentry classes. Woodworking students acquired skills by construction and finishing coffee tables, small stools and other articles. Advanced students' projects included bedroom suites, matching tables and chairs and additional furniture units.

A new course offered this year, carpentry students emphasized their work on the construction and building of structures rather than the interior furniture woodworking includes. Proper use and care of tools and equipment was also acquired.

Vocational training as well as useful daily knowledge is gained by boys enrolled in auto mechanics class.

Making use of an excellent supply of tools, students in woodworking learn to make useful household items.

Mechanical drawing classes work on scale drawings of geometric figures, and house and furniture plans.

Mr. Stearns helps vocational agriculture boys prepare for competition in crops, poultry, and speech contests.

"F" Wing

Practical Skills Are Learned In Classes

Mr. Larry Sampson, new to the Manhattan high faculty, instructed the mechanical drawing classes. Taking this course, boys acquired a background for industrial drafting. First year students drew simple dimensions then proceeded to sections and perspectives. Advanced boys worked on drawings of complex machinery parts and architectural plates. Mr. Sampson did his student teaching with Mr. Post last year.

Mr. Merwin Stearns conducted the four year program of vocational agriculture. Each boy enrolled in the course was responsible for a four year project. He was required to grow a feed crop and raise livestock, keeping all records.

Each week a couple days were spent in the shop area for maintenance and repair of farm machinery and equipment, and for care and use of tools. In the classroom, time for study and instruction of livestock and crops systems, knowledge of keeping accurate accounts and the planning of farm programs were undertaken. Boys learned the proper ways to judge crops and livestock. During the four years of study, they worked toward the high honor of Farmer Degree.

This year was the first occurrence that a girl undertook the course. However, when competing with other schools, MHS could not be given points when she placed high, because she is a female.

T&I And DE

Pupils Become Skilled By Practical Training

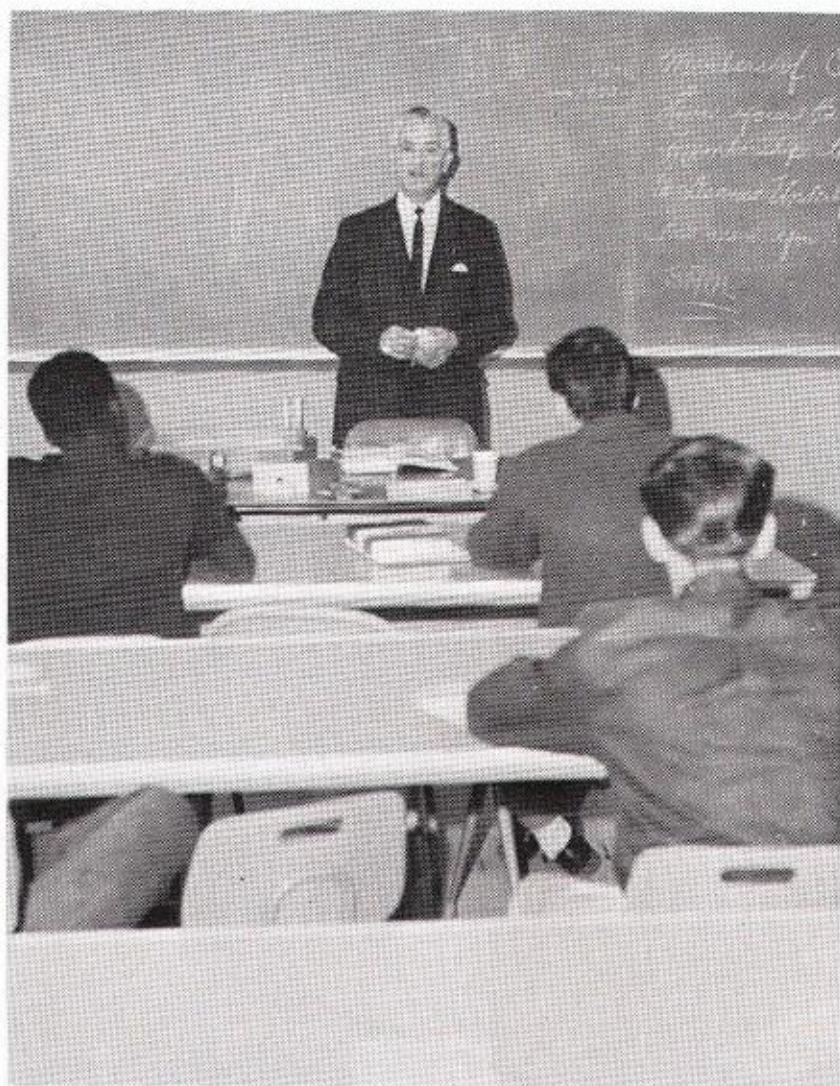

New to Manhattan high's curriculum this year was the Trade and Industry training program under the supervision of Mr. Nick Talarico. This program was designed for the student who wished to prepare for a definite vocation in some trade or industry. At this time, he also wanted to meet the requirements for high school graduation. During the day, a T&I student received practical training in his chosen skilled occupation. Completing this course, a student was qualified to enter a full time employment job. He had an advantage over others because of his previous acquaintance with the skills and chores involved in his field.

Also new to MHS was the Distributive Education training program directed by Mr. Robert Verschelden. This program was designed for the same purposes as T&I except the emphasis was placed on distribution and marketing. In the morning, students received instruction concerning their jobs and other related subjects. On the job training was experienced in the afternoon so the student could become proficient in his work.

Students taking these courses benefited themselves in many ways. Employers and all people working with these students were well pleased and approved of the new training programs.

Cooperation

Journalism And Printing Supply MHS Publications

Providing for the publications of the school, the journalism and printing departments worked together as one coordinating body.

Junior journalism prepared the students with the knowledge of a basic understanding of the rules and fundamentals of journalism. They spent most of the year working with different aspects of newspaper writing. A trip to the Manhattan Mercury plant was taken. The last few weeks of the course, students found out how to put a yearbook together. Throughout the year, students were preparing for the chosen positions on the Blue M and Mentor staffs. These were selected near the end of the year.

Senior journalists worked on the school newspaper and yearbook staffs. Miss Dorothy Burton taught all of these classes. She also had one English class.

Printing classes were instructed by a new faculty member, Mr. Victor Oertle. A three hour vocational printing course was offered for those boys who had previously taken the Printing I and II classes. This class was especially designed for boys who were not college bound. Learning and understanding printing materials and working mechanisms, boys printed the school newspaper, programs and tickets as well as materials for the entire school system.

Boys enrolled in vocational printing learn by the example of Mr. Oertle in mastering the basic skills of the trade.

Spirited volleyball games and tournaments take place during the unit in girls gym. Manhattan high students are required to take one and one-half units of physical education.

Teaches Sportsmanship

Various Gym Activities Stress Physical Fitness

Miss Betty Bethell instructed the girls' physical education classes. Fall and winter activities included archery, volleyball, basketball, tumbling, folk and social dancing. During the spring months, track and outside sports gave the girls their physical exercise. Improvement of the skills was the important goal for girls to achieve. Along with the participation in the activity, conducts of good sportsmanship were followed, practiced and learned.

In addition to being head basketball and golf coach and assisting with other sports, Mr. Roy Dewitz taught boys' physical education classes and supervised one study hall. Boys worked on skills of touch football, basketball, gymnastics and track.

Aside from his algebra and math classes, Mr. Earl Gritton was head coach for football and wrestling. Boys out for these sports practiced and worked out after school hours to prepare for their interscholastic events.

New to the faculty this year, Mr. David Laurie taught boys' gym classes. He assisted with the coaching of the athletics program.

Supplementing both girls' and boys' gym programs, intramurals were of importance. Boys participated in basketball and girls in bowling and volleyball. Good fun and sportsmanship prevailed in all events.

Linda Mitchell, Sharon Bernitz, and Linda Rose test their endurance on the government's physical fitness tests.

Sock Hop

Blue M Staff Presents Five Queen Candidates

"Dance in socks!" This message attracted many Manhattan high school students to the annual Sock Hop held in the gym, October 12.

As each student entered the door, he pulled off his shoes and got his feet measured in order to determine his admission fee. The cost was five cents for every inch of his foot. Each individual signed up for the drawing of a free Blue M. Names were put in an enormous blue sock amid many other colored socks hung on a clothesline within the dancing area.

Receiving five dollar certificates to local dress shops for having the largest and smallest feet respectfully, were Ralph Richardson, senior, and Grace Gerritz, sophomore. Sophomore Beverly Hunt won the door prize which was a free Blue M.

For students not wishing to dance all evening, ouija boards provided much fun and entertainment.

Crowning the Blue M queen finalists was Rick Broadhurst, sports editor. As each girl's name was called, a small blue sock with her name written upon it in silver was pinned on her. A long stemmed rose was also given to each queen candidate.

Girls receiving the honor of being Blue M queen finalists were Joyce Burris, Sara Fiser, Jean Howe, Ann Hutchins and Sharon Whitley.

Tears, smiles and words of congratulations for the girls supplemented the final dances of the evening.

Ann Hutchins, Joyce Burris, Sara Fiser, Jean Howe, and Sharon Whitley are crowned Blue M queen finalists.

"How will we ever find them?" exclaim Beccy Fink and Mike Emig while trying to find an empty spot for their shoes.

Little socks, medium socks, and a big sock hang on the clothesline strung in a corner of the gym at the Sock

Hop. Those attending the casual party, sponsored by the Blue M, danced in socks to the music of the juke box.

Blue M queen semi-finalists: Jeanie Bergstrom, Joyce Burris, Barb Crain, Sara Fiser, Jean Howe, Ann Hutch-

"Let's Go Dutch"

Kayettes Honor Agnes With All School Party

With a windmill, a dike, and tulips, "Go Dutch" began the school parties for the year. This new all school party was sponsored by the Kayettes, September 28, in the gym and gym lobby.

Dutch foreign exchange student, Agnes Van Rees was honored by Sharon Whitley, Kayette President, during intermission. She was presented a bracelet with the inscription, "Kayette Party, 1963" on a silver charm. Following the presentation, Tom Feldkamp and the "Swinging Seven" played a couple tunes.

Serving the refreshments in a new style, the balcony depicted a Dutch town. Walking down the "street" and stopping at various "stores", different foods could be obtained at the "store windows".

Numerous games, puzzles, chess and cards kept many students busy in the lobby. Dancing to the juke box music was provided in the gym. With these activities, all participating students enjoyed an evening of fun.

Concentration is the key word as groups of students gather to play games of chess, checkers, or monopoly.

Christmas Formal

Kayette "Crystal Ball" Features Limbo Dancer

"Crystal Ball" was the theme for the second annual Kayette Christmas formal held in the high school gymnasium, Saturday, December 7.

Special feature of the evening was the presence of Ramon Sharpe, international limbo dancer. Besides his limbo act, he sang a calypso song using students' names to create the lyrics. Following out the theme, a crystal chandelier hung over the middle of the dancing area. Under the silver tree in the lobby, presents for an over-seas relief program were placed.

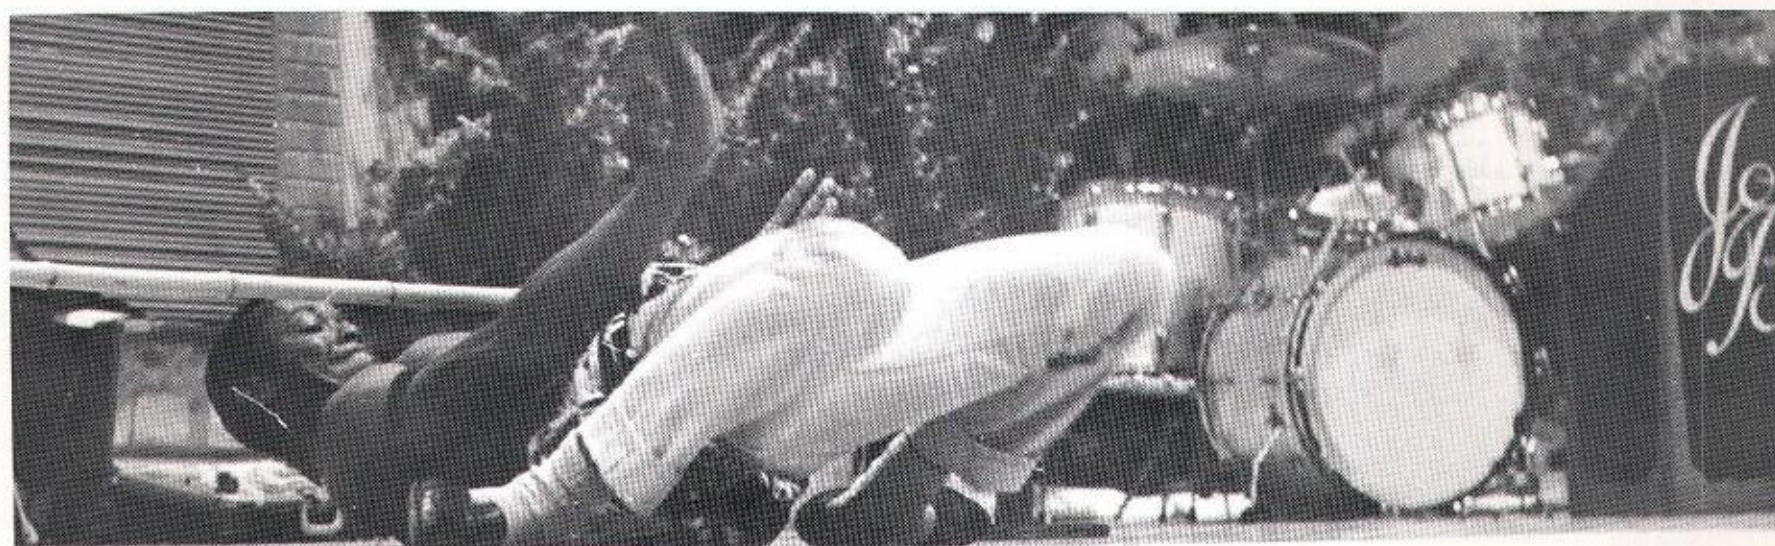

Pink punch and cookies were served as refreshments. The John Boyd band provided the dancing music.

Each girl is presented a Christmas wrist corsage. Dave Fairbanks helps Linda Harrison with hers.

Susan Rehschuh, decorations chairman, puts finishing touches on the Christmas trees made from magazines.

Runner-up to the world champion limbo dancer, Mr. Sharpe, a student at Kansas State University is from Aruba.

Roger Kaiser matches wits with Mr. Haas as Allen Lewis casts an amazed glance at the checker board.

Sophomore Party

Visit To "Outer Space" Is Class Party Theme

Amid an atmosphere of "Outer Space", MHS sophomores attended the annual sophomore class party held in the school's main lobby and cafeteria, Friday, January 31. Planned by the sophomores, this was the only party exclusively for them.

Card games, chess, checkers in the cafeteria, and dancing to the juke box in the lobby, entertained the sophomores throughout the evening. A special program of a small band combo, vocalist and two emcees added to the night's festivities. A surprising highlight of the party was the presentation of a corsage to the head class sponsor, Miss Anna Marley.

To create the setting of the theme, a large space ship, space men, stars and mobiles decorated the party area. Refreshments of cokes and doughnuts were served in the cafeteria.

Tim Duncan returns the ball to his opponent in a game of ping pong, one form of entertainment enjoyed by many.

Junior Class Sponsored

Circus Comes To MHS For Golddigger's Ball

Switching usual customs, MHS girls took the boys to the circus, Saturday, January 25. The junior class sponsored the annual Golddigger's Ball in the high school gym and gym lobby.

Using the "circus" as the theme, girls made corsages for their dates. These varied from a small clown to the added clothing of a circus character. Highlighting the evening was the judging of these corsages by a few faculty wives.

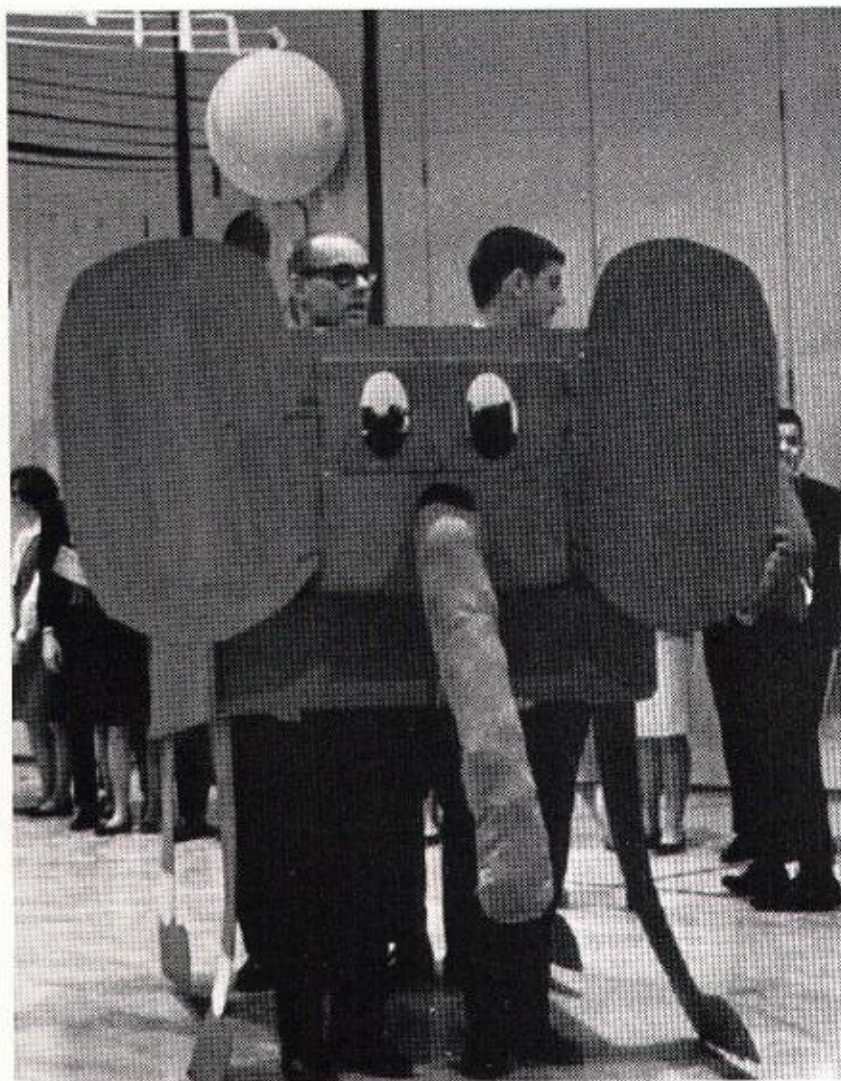

Decorations included a life-size moving carousel in the center of the gym underneath crepe paper streamers and balloons forming a tent roof. Pictures of monkeys, a strong man and lions adorned the walls.

Refreshments served on the balcony consisted of "pink elephant" cookies and cokes. Popcorn could be bought from a vender in the lobby.

Couples attending the party danced to the music of the juke box.

"The Greatest Shupe on Earth" titles the winning corsage made by Joyce Burris for John Shupe.

A giant elephant corsage is worn by four boys whose dates pooled their talent and effort in making the corsage.

A moving, life size carousel stands in the center of the floor, topped by streamers creating a tent effect.

Pigskin Prom

King And Queen Reign Over "The Royal Ball"

"The Royal Ball" honored all football players at the annual Pigskin Prom, November 16, in the gym. It was sponsored by the student council.

Highlighting the decorations was a red velvet throne awaiting the king and queen as they were crowned. This was located at the top of three ascending stairs covered with blue and white material. On the refreshment table, a candy palace had been made of various sweets with each peak honoring a coach.

Reigning over the dance were King Bim Bigsby, Queen Sande Lindgren, and their attendants Jeanie Bergstrom, Carolyn Eyestone, Sharon Kirkbride, Kathy Wilson, Lee Baker, Dave Becraft, Lee Schruben and Steve Taylor. Junior honoraries were Dana Bayer, Ellen Kelchak, Ann Minturn, Tom Ball, Roger Barr and George Shupe; sophomore honoraries, Cecilia Eyestone, Linda Hooper, Larry Becraft and Doug Dodge.

Couples attending the prom listened and danced to the music of Tommy Lee and his band.

Surprise, excitement, and happiness dominate the faces of Sande Lindgren and Bim Bigsby after the crowning.

Decorating the refreshment table is a cookie castle made by Janet Herpich and Jeri Morris, council members.

Basketball Royalty — Jeanie Bergstrom, Dave Becraft, Linda Harrison, Dave Fairbanks, Barbara Crain, John Shupe, Bob Lansdowne, Kathy Wilson, Tom Milbourn, Carolyn Eyestone.

Excitement and happiness cross the faces of king, John Shupe and queen, Barbara Crain.

A group of singing wrestlers, the "Insex," present some original and some well-known folk songs at intermission.

Basketball Prom

Annual Prom Features A "Moonlight Stroll"

MHS couples took a "Moonlight Stroll" through the gym February 29, when they attended the annual Basketball Prom, sponsored by the Student Council.

Park benches, lamp posts and small trees accented the pathway around the gym. At the west end of the dance area was a large band shell from which the John Boyd band played music for listening or dancing pleasure. A king-size moon hovered above attending couples.

Reigning over the dance were King John Shupe, Queen Barbara Crain, and their attendants Jeanie Bergstrom, Carolyn Eyestone, Linda Harrison, Kathy Wilson, Dave Becraft, Dave Fairbanks, Bob Lansdowne, Tom Milbourn. Junior honoraries were Kathy Kennedy, Mary McManis, Nancy Netson, Tom Ball, Steve Beck and George Shupe; sophomore honoraries, Martha Fiser, Jan Lindgren, Greg Dickerson and Doug Dodge.

Intermission entertainment was provided by the "Insex", a senior boys' trio, who sang songs about the basketball boys and the referees.

There's always plenty of help at the refreshment table. Cherry cokes and assorted cookies satisfy the hungry.

Couples dance to the music of John Boyd's band amidst the decorations portraying a moonlit night in the park.

Before Zero Hour

Clubs Promote Learning With Many Activities

Early hours beckoned students to interest clubs this year. Club meetings began at 7:20 a.m.; before the regularly scheduled zero hour. Due to the change in time, many of the club sizes decreased greatly in number. However, all the early risers spent their time well and profited in learning about their interests.

Interest clubs promoted additional learning and understanding of one's interest by the use of speakers, slides, trips and special celebrations. Parties also supplemented many of the clubs' activities. Besides fun and learning, they also furthered students' abilities of leadership and responsibility.

Other large school organizations conducted school functions, worked with the administration and boosted school spirit. All clubs and organizations strived to uphold good school standings and traditions.

Governing Body

Student Council Unites Faculty And Students

Student Council, school governing body, served as the media between the student body and faculty members. The council was backed by a four-fold purpose: to maintain cooperation and sincere student and teacher relations, to further the interest of the student body, to promote unity in all school activities and to uphold school traditions.

Money making projects were prevalent through the year. Selling theater privilege cards, filling the pencil and paper machine, selling popcorn at basketball games and selling booster buttons were the principal projects. They also sponsored the football and basketball celebrations. This year, the royalty was voted by the entire school and not only those attending the parties.

Members attended a fall conference at Lawrence, held the new students party and finished the year with a council Bar-B-Que party.

Agnes, AFS Student, Writes Of MHS Life

Dear Indians,

These things I shall have to leave:

the trip to school, when the world is getting ready for the day; walking in a paradise of wild gardens, with a tender haze as a sigh over the earth;

the good old school, with the familiar halls and lobbies, with Mr. Bishop seeking someone or working in his little office;

the classes I like most, that form the highlights of the day;

lunchtime, when we, standing in our line, discuss the things of the day, or defend with animation old and new theories, hungry, but happy being united with friends again; the food that always (almost always) is good;

the clubs, where everyone is so cheerful but where yet one can learn something;

walking home, again in wonder for the beauty of the trees and the houses, or exchanging with Sandra and friends the experiences of the day; the thousands of things to see, which you all know so well, but that are new each time: the cemetery, the streets, the hills;

home, where Mom is waiting;

the good old piano (that I started playing here);

supper, where the whole family is united, and where still I encounter once in a while food that is entirely new to me;

the evenings, when I do homework, read, draw now and then (usually when I should have been asleep for hours); going to bed, thinking of all things that happened, the new people I have met, the new experiences I have had.

Oh, I love these things so much, these are my life here, these are my loves here.

School Spirit

Pep Club, Cheerleaders Support Athletic Teams

Supporting the school with enthusiasm, the Manhattan Blue Pepsters appeared at MHS athletic events. The girls wore the traditional blue skirts with blue and white striped sweaters.

This year, an Honor Pep club was established. To distinguish themselves from the others, these senior girls wore white blazers with their blue skirts.

Pep club sponsored homecoming festivities which included a chili feed followed by a bonfire, pep rally and a parade to the football stadium. In the fall, old members initiated the new. Pep club provided busses for girls to attend some out-of-town games. Painting signs, decorating goal posts and making the basketball hoop were also projects of the club.

Pep club council served as the advisory committee to plan and carry out activities. Four members from each class and the officers made up this group.

Five varsity cheerleaders were present at all home and away games and pep rallies to lead the student body in cheers and yells. During football season, they were responsible for the formation that the boys ran through, and during basketball season, the opening ceremony. B-team cheerleaders were chosen in the fall and cheered at all B-team basketball games.

Athletic Organization

Lettermen In M-Club Promote Sportsmanship

A special organization for Manhattan high lettermen was M-Club, led by President Lee Baker. These boys worked to promote athletics within the school.

As a money-making project, the boys sold special "Follow the Fighting Indians" bumper strips. In the spring, they held the annual "M-Club versus Faculty" basketball game. The proceeds went to the AFS fund. The main project for this year was the purchase of a new scoreboard in the gymnasium. This project had been under discussion and money had been collected for two years. They also changed the track plaque in the gym as an annual service. Initiations to welcome new members and a steak fry in the spring were also annual events.

Being a member of M-Club, each boy tried to fulfill the purpose which was to show true sportsmanship and citizenship at all times, and to set good standards so that the school and organization might be bettered. Qualifications for membership were that the applicant had participated and completed some MHS sport for one season and must have received a letter for his work.

Christian Organization

Hi-Y Members Strive For High Standards

A boys' organization, Hi-Y's purpose was to create, maintain, and extend throughout the home, school and community, high standards of Christian character.

Special activities of the club were the annual Battle of Sexes, Easter Assembly and the Mother-Son Banquet. As money-making projects, they sponsored the Hi-Y book exchange and football concession stand. During the meetings, boys listened to many inspirational speakers and panels.

At semester, graduating President Jeff Shenkel turned his position over to Vice-president Roger Barr.

Decorating the Christmas tree in the main lobby is an annual combined project of Kayette and Hi-Y members.

Boys head for the Hi-Y meeting in the auditorium. Programs are planned for meetings every other week.

Kayettes

Girls Give Community, School, World Service

Completing its second year at MHS, Kayettes again distinguished themselves in school, community and world service, as well as fun for all.

Before the school term began, Kayette board members were formulating many ideas they had obtained at summer camp. A conference was also attended early in the year. Kayettes sponsored the back to school party in the fall and also a formal at Christmas time.

During the year, Kayettes gave service in such areas as cleaning the bleachers before football games, washing car windows, selling candy, contributing to CARE and clothing drives, and being time keepers at the debate tournament. For the girls' fun and entertainment, Heart Sister week was observed and a style show was presented in the spring.

The Kayette cabinet consists of four elected officers, nine board members and four advisors. Each is responsible for one certain area of the program designed for the entire organization.

Kayettes present animated cheers in support of their team in the Battle of the Sexes and a "K-ette" sign appears.

Mentor, Blue M

Journalists Work Hard To Record School Year

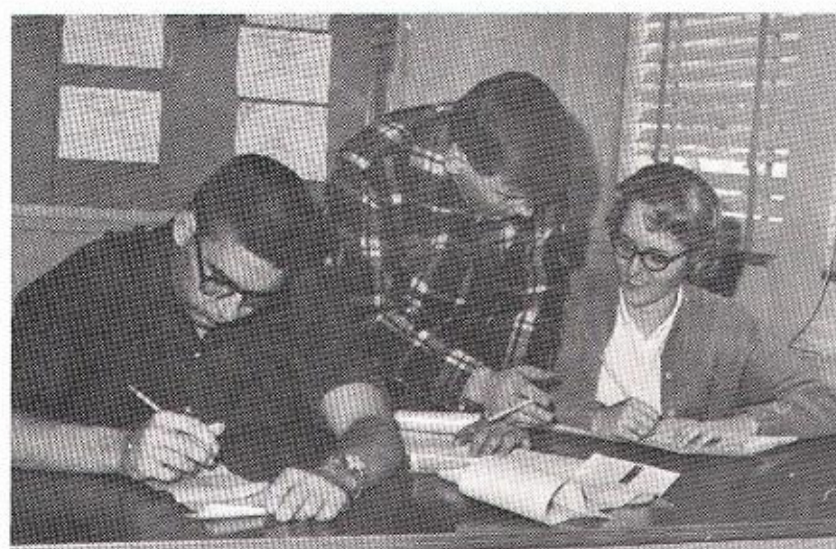

Publishing the school newspaper, the Mentor staff works diligently to provide MHS students with a paper each week. This year, the staff also published two literary editions composed of works written by members of the student body. Having a larger staff, the page editors worked in pairs. Editor was Linda Carlson and Mary Anne Thorson was associate editor.

Working frantically at deadline times, the members of the Blue M yearbook staff sighed with relief when the book was finally completed. The staff began their work in the spring of 1963 and continued working until the spring of 1964. Although depressed and worried at times, the staff found their work rewarding when the books were issued.

Quill and Scroll, International Honorary Society for High School Journalists consisted of 17 members. The group met after school bi-monthly. To begin the year, a supper party was held at Janet Herpich's, president. In the spring, an initiation for juniors who fulfilled the requirements and would be next year's publication staff members took place.

Thespians Study Realms Of Speech And Drama

Thespians Troupe 941 of Manhattan high school assisted with all dramatic productions at the school and supported those in the community. In addition to these programs, Thespians members learned more about the realm of speech and drama through special programs and speakers.

Thespians sponsored the "Mellerdramer" assembly in which students watched play skits and pantomimes portraying the old melodrama skits, the night of silent movies complete with "gin" in a bathtub, and the serious Christmas play, "Why the Chimes Rang". The largest project was the all-school play, "The Miracle Worker". Members were in charge of the behind stage work and all committees. This year, they were hosts to the Kansas Speech Festival where all schools performed one-act plays.

In the spring a special Dramatics Awards Banquet was held. Awards were given to the persons who had been voted as the best actor, actress, technician and also best Thespian.

Talking on opportunities and advantages in television acting is Mr. Bob Snyder at a Thespians Meeting.

Debaters Strive For Achievement Degrees

A highly participated field that MHS students took part in was debate. The National Forensic League completed its second year as a Manhattan high organization. It recognized and encouraged outstanding achievements in forensics and debate. Four degrees of achievement could be earned by MHS debaters. These were Merit, Honor, Excellence and finally Distinction.

With a chapter at the high school, it was possible for MHS debaters to attend the NFL State Tournament and National Student Congress. NFL also sponsored a national championship debate tournament for state winners. Activities in speech competition were also prevalent. The Manhattan chapter was again host for the annual invitational tournament for Kansas debaters. The topic for debate this year was medical care.

In addition to the preparation and presentation of the debates, MHS debaters had many parties and get-togethers strictly for fun and entertainment.

FFA And FHA Members Prepare For The Future

Service projects for the school, community and the world were just three of the many engaged activities of the Future Homemakers of America members. FHA also sponsored Cotton Day, the Cotton Ball and held a Christmas party for their mothers.

Cabinet members planned decorations for the district conference in Wamego. FHA showcase displays created interest as they portrayed the numerous occupations and fields that home economics offers.

Maintaining leadership, cooperation and citizenship were the objectives of the Future Farmers of America. Throughout their many activities in the community and nearby farms, members were always striving to achieve these goals.

FFA boys participated in leadership school, judging events, schools involving other aspects of the farm and speech contests. Many of the boys placed high in the district, therefore eligible for state competition. Members also took high honors in the state.

Each boy also had special projects which he worked on during the year. These varied from the construction of a farm implement to caring for farm animals.

Distributive Education and Trade and Industry training programs were introduced to Manhattan high school this year. These programs were set up for those students 16 years and over who wished to prepare themselves for a vocation after high school without having a college education.

Some of the skilled occupations MHS students participated in were dry cleaning, hotel management, nursing, printing, tailoring, warehousing, carpentry, auto mechanics, aircraft mechanics, building maintenance and produce and frozen foods. Many of the students continued working in full time employment.

DE students acquired skills of store management and advertising. They developed the ability to work with others and a knowledge of good job performance.

Future Teachers of America members learned new methods and ideas of teaching through special speakers, reports, films and visits to Kansas State University. These new methods were for elementary, secondary and high school levels. Education in other lands was also discussed. Some activities of FTA included a watermelon feed, making name tags for teachers, a tea for teachers and attending a workshop. Lynne Dakin held the office of state FTA recording secretary.

Future Vocations Are Stressed In Meetings

Discussing books was the favorite pastime of the library club. The group selected a book to read and then for their programs, they analyzed and talked about their selection. Since the membership was small, there seemed to be no need for officers and all of the work done was by group action.

The Ben Franklin printing interest club engages themselves in many activities. All of the basketball and football programs were printed by these boys. One large project was buying camera equipment for the print shop dark room. As usual, the annual steak fry was well looked forward to and enjoyed by all.

Future Business Leaders of America club helped prepare students for the future. To enhance their learning, guest speakers spoke at various meetings. Fund raising projects included the sale of candy and candles. Much time was also spent in preparation for the state convention which was held at Pittsburg.

Language Clubs

Members Study Many Customs And Cultures

Study of constellations and their mythology, a Roman banquet, picnics, plays and reports varied Junior Classical League meetings. The club also published the state JCL newspaper and attended the state convention in Salina. Member Jeri Morris held the state office of vice-president.

French club members listened to native speakers, watched a Christmas play put on by own members, viewed slides and played games at morning meetings. Special events included a St. Catherine's celebration, A Mardi Gras party and a French dinner.

Films, talks and speakers concerning Spanish speaking nations constituted regularly scheduled Spanish club meetings. Parties with Spanish food and music provided outside entertainment for club members.

Intramurals, Science

Interest Clubs Plan Variety Of Programs

Girls' intramurals interest club met after school and competed in many tournaments among themselves. Girls participated in bowling, basketball and volleyball. In the spring, a volleyball game with the faculty was played to help make money for the AFS drive.

While engaging in the events, the girls tried to fully understand their sport and to then increase the perfection of their individual technique. When the girls changed their activity, they divided into new teams and chose new team captains.

Science club met as one group this year instead of splitting up into the three sciences of biology, physics and chemistry, because of the overall decrease in membership of the club. Members involved themselves in many activities including all of the sciences. Side trips to the nuclear reactor and to the planetarium on the Kansas State university campus, informative speakers, and special demonstrations by club members taught the students many new facets about the new and changing scientific world.

Art Interest Club Visits Kansas City Art Gallery

Trips, workshops and speakers from the university entertained the art club members. One of the special trips that the club made was to the Kansas City Art Gallery. At the end of the year, club members had a "clothes line sale". Student art work was displayed to be bought by the rest of the student body.

Students appreciating the world of music joined a music club. Their main project was sponsoring the juke box in the main lobby.

Boys interested in architecture formed together in Architecture club. Slides, speakers and group projects supplemented the boys' learning.

Twirlers And Pep Band Highlight MHS Spirit

Promoting more spirit and enthusiasm for the school, the MHS pep band played at all home basketball games and pep rallies. President of the group, Rick Broadhurst directed them during all of their activities.

Manhattan high had seven twirlers this year. Twirlers were Janice Pomperien, solo; Becky Fink, head; Sara Fiser, Jo Ann Carlson, Donna Simmons, Patty Brennan and Jan Lundin, alternate. These girls performed at all home football games, in parades and appeared during half-time at a basketball game.

Serving as drum major for his second year, Rick Broadhurst led the MHS "Thundering Tribe" at home football games and parades. Rick's capacity gave him the responsibility of directing the music and keeping the band in proper formation and step. He and band director, Mr. Lawrence Norvell, worked together to plan the band's performances. Sharon Kirkbride was alternate drum major.

Various Activities

Orchestra And Bands Provide Music For MHS

Orchestra was exclusive in being all strings. This enabled the musicians to improve their techniques without the bother of brass and wind instruments. Orchestra provided the music for the musical, participated in instrumental concerts and attended the CKL String Clinic.

Marching band totaled 138 members. After marching season, two concert bands were formed; symphonic and varsity. Band members performed in musical concerts, Variety Show and attended band clinic. Some members of the band assisted the strings when it was needed.

Officers for band were Mike McCormick, president; Norman Byers, vice-president; and Susan Campbell, secretary.

Music

Vocalists, Blue Notes Perform For Community

New to the music curriculum as a class was Pops Choir. This group was composed of outstanding senior vocalists. Doing dance steps while singing distinguished the singers as a "show" ensemble. They performed at many civic clubs and organizations.

Treble Clef was a select group of girls. During the year, they performed for the school and for many community functions. Members of T-Clef sang all styles of music, from the classics to the all-time favorites.

Girls' glee club was composed mostly of sophomore girls who were just beginning to build their background in vocal music. Vocal techniques and the fun of singing were enjoyed by the girls.

The Blue Notes' MHS stage band, purpose was not to play for dances, but to play modern American big band jazz and show-type music. They performed for many of the civic groups, but their main function of the year was to participate in the variety show.

Select Group

Robed Choir Performs Throughout The Year

Robed Choir, Manhattan high's select vocal group for outstanding vocalists was very active in their singing throughout the school year.

Beginning with the musical in November, the Robed Choir also performed for school assemblies, civic groups and service clubs, and variety show. The group also attended the CKL vocal clinic, entered district and state contests, and sang at other invited places. Some of the members were chosen to sing in the KMEA chorus at Hays.

Music sung by the choir was basically of a serious, sacred nature. Much of it was sung a cappella bringing out the beauty of the blended voices. Small group ensembles were formed from this group and they sang together for practice and for enjoyment.

Practice is long and arduous for students under Mr. Boye's direction striving for the perfection he demands.

Vocal Music

Mixed Choirs Prepare For Future Vocal Groups

Because of the increase of the vocal music enrollment, two mixed choirs were formed. These groups consisted mostly of sophomores and junior boys and girls. Music practiced by these students prepared them for future and more advanced choral groups and the high school.

With mixed choruses, individuals had the opportunity to learn to blend their voices with the opposite sex at an early high school age. This was profitable in training for the goal of becoming a Robed Choir member.

Chorus members performed in a musical concert during the year. These students also participated in the all-school musical.

"Namely You," sings Daisy Mae to a seemingly unconcerned Abner, caught alone for a moment during the search for something necessary.

It's a typical day when Moonbeam McSwine appears with a baby pig.

"Open and hold," commands Mammy as she forces some Yokumberry tonic into the mouth of her rebelling son.

Musical Comedy

"Li'l Abner" Comes To Manhattan High School

Dogpatch U.S.A. came to Manhattan high when the musical "Li'l Abner" was performed November 21, 23 and 26. This musical comedy by Melvin Frank and Norman Panama provided work and pleasure for 300 students, one-third of the student body.

Li'l Abner, son of Mammy and Pappy Yokum, and Daisy Mae Scragg had been in love with each other since their childhood. However, every Sadie Hawkins Day, Abner would not let Daisy catch him to be her husband as was customary. The year that would be Daisy's sure catch was full of comedy and confusion. Although when at times it seemed that the two persons would never get together, as in many tales, it ended happily ever after.

An all school project, the musical was under the direction of the music, art and home economics departments. Individuals not appearing on stage spent many hours with make-up, costumes, sets, lighting and publicity. Combining all efforts of those involved, Al Capp's comic strip characters came to life on stage.

Evil Eye Fleagle, a fugitive from justice, Appassionata, General Bullmoose's private secretary, and Senator Phog-bound listen to the money crazy General's plan to get possession of Abner and his Yokumberry tonic.

Class Play

Juniors Present Comedy; "Washington Slept Here"

"George Washington Slept Here" began the theatrical productions October 17 and 18. This Hart and Kaufman comedy was presented by the junior class.

Newton Fuller bought a very old house in the country. However in his real estate proposition, he had been misled on some details concerning the house and property. Mrs. Annabelle Fuller, a city girl at heart, was against the wishes of her husband when he purchased the house. Each day, everything in the country seemed only to become more depressing and irritating on her nerves.

Having such awesome conditions to endure, the entire Fuller family was always in some sort of confusion or unusual situation.

Since the house was in such poor shape, the Fuller bank account began to dwindle more and more each day as repair bills stacked up. Finally, being $5,000 in the hole, Mr. Fuller was forced to leave the house or pay up. By this time Annabelle enjoyed the open air of the country and also wanted to stay.

Through the scheming ideas of "rich" Uncle Stanley, the mischievous nephew Raymond, Madge Fuller and her friends, and other characters, the play proved to be a very successful comedy.

Directing the play was Mr. Maurice Roberts, drama coach. Many hours of hard work were also spent on the scenery, back stage work and make-up.

MHS Thespians Sponsor "The Miracle Worker"

"The Miracle Worker", directed by Mr. Maurice Roberts, drama instructor, was presented in the MHS auditorium, February 13 and 15.

Written by William Gibson, this play was of a serious nature. It depicted the "beginning" of the life of a deaf and blind child, Helen Keller, and the struggle of her true friend and teacher, Annie Sullivan who was determined to give Helen the most normal life that she could undertake.

Through patience, understanding and a steady hand, Annie was able to work with her pupil. This was done in spite of the frequent arguments and disagreements with the parents. Annie would never stop trying. She knew that Helen could learn and she aimed to teach.

Back stage work presented some difficulties. The play was performed on a three-level stage. Lights, props, programs and make-up also demanded much attention. Francey Larson was student director.

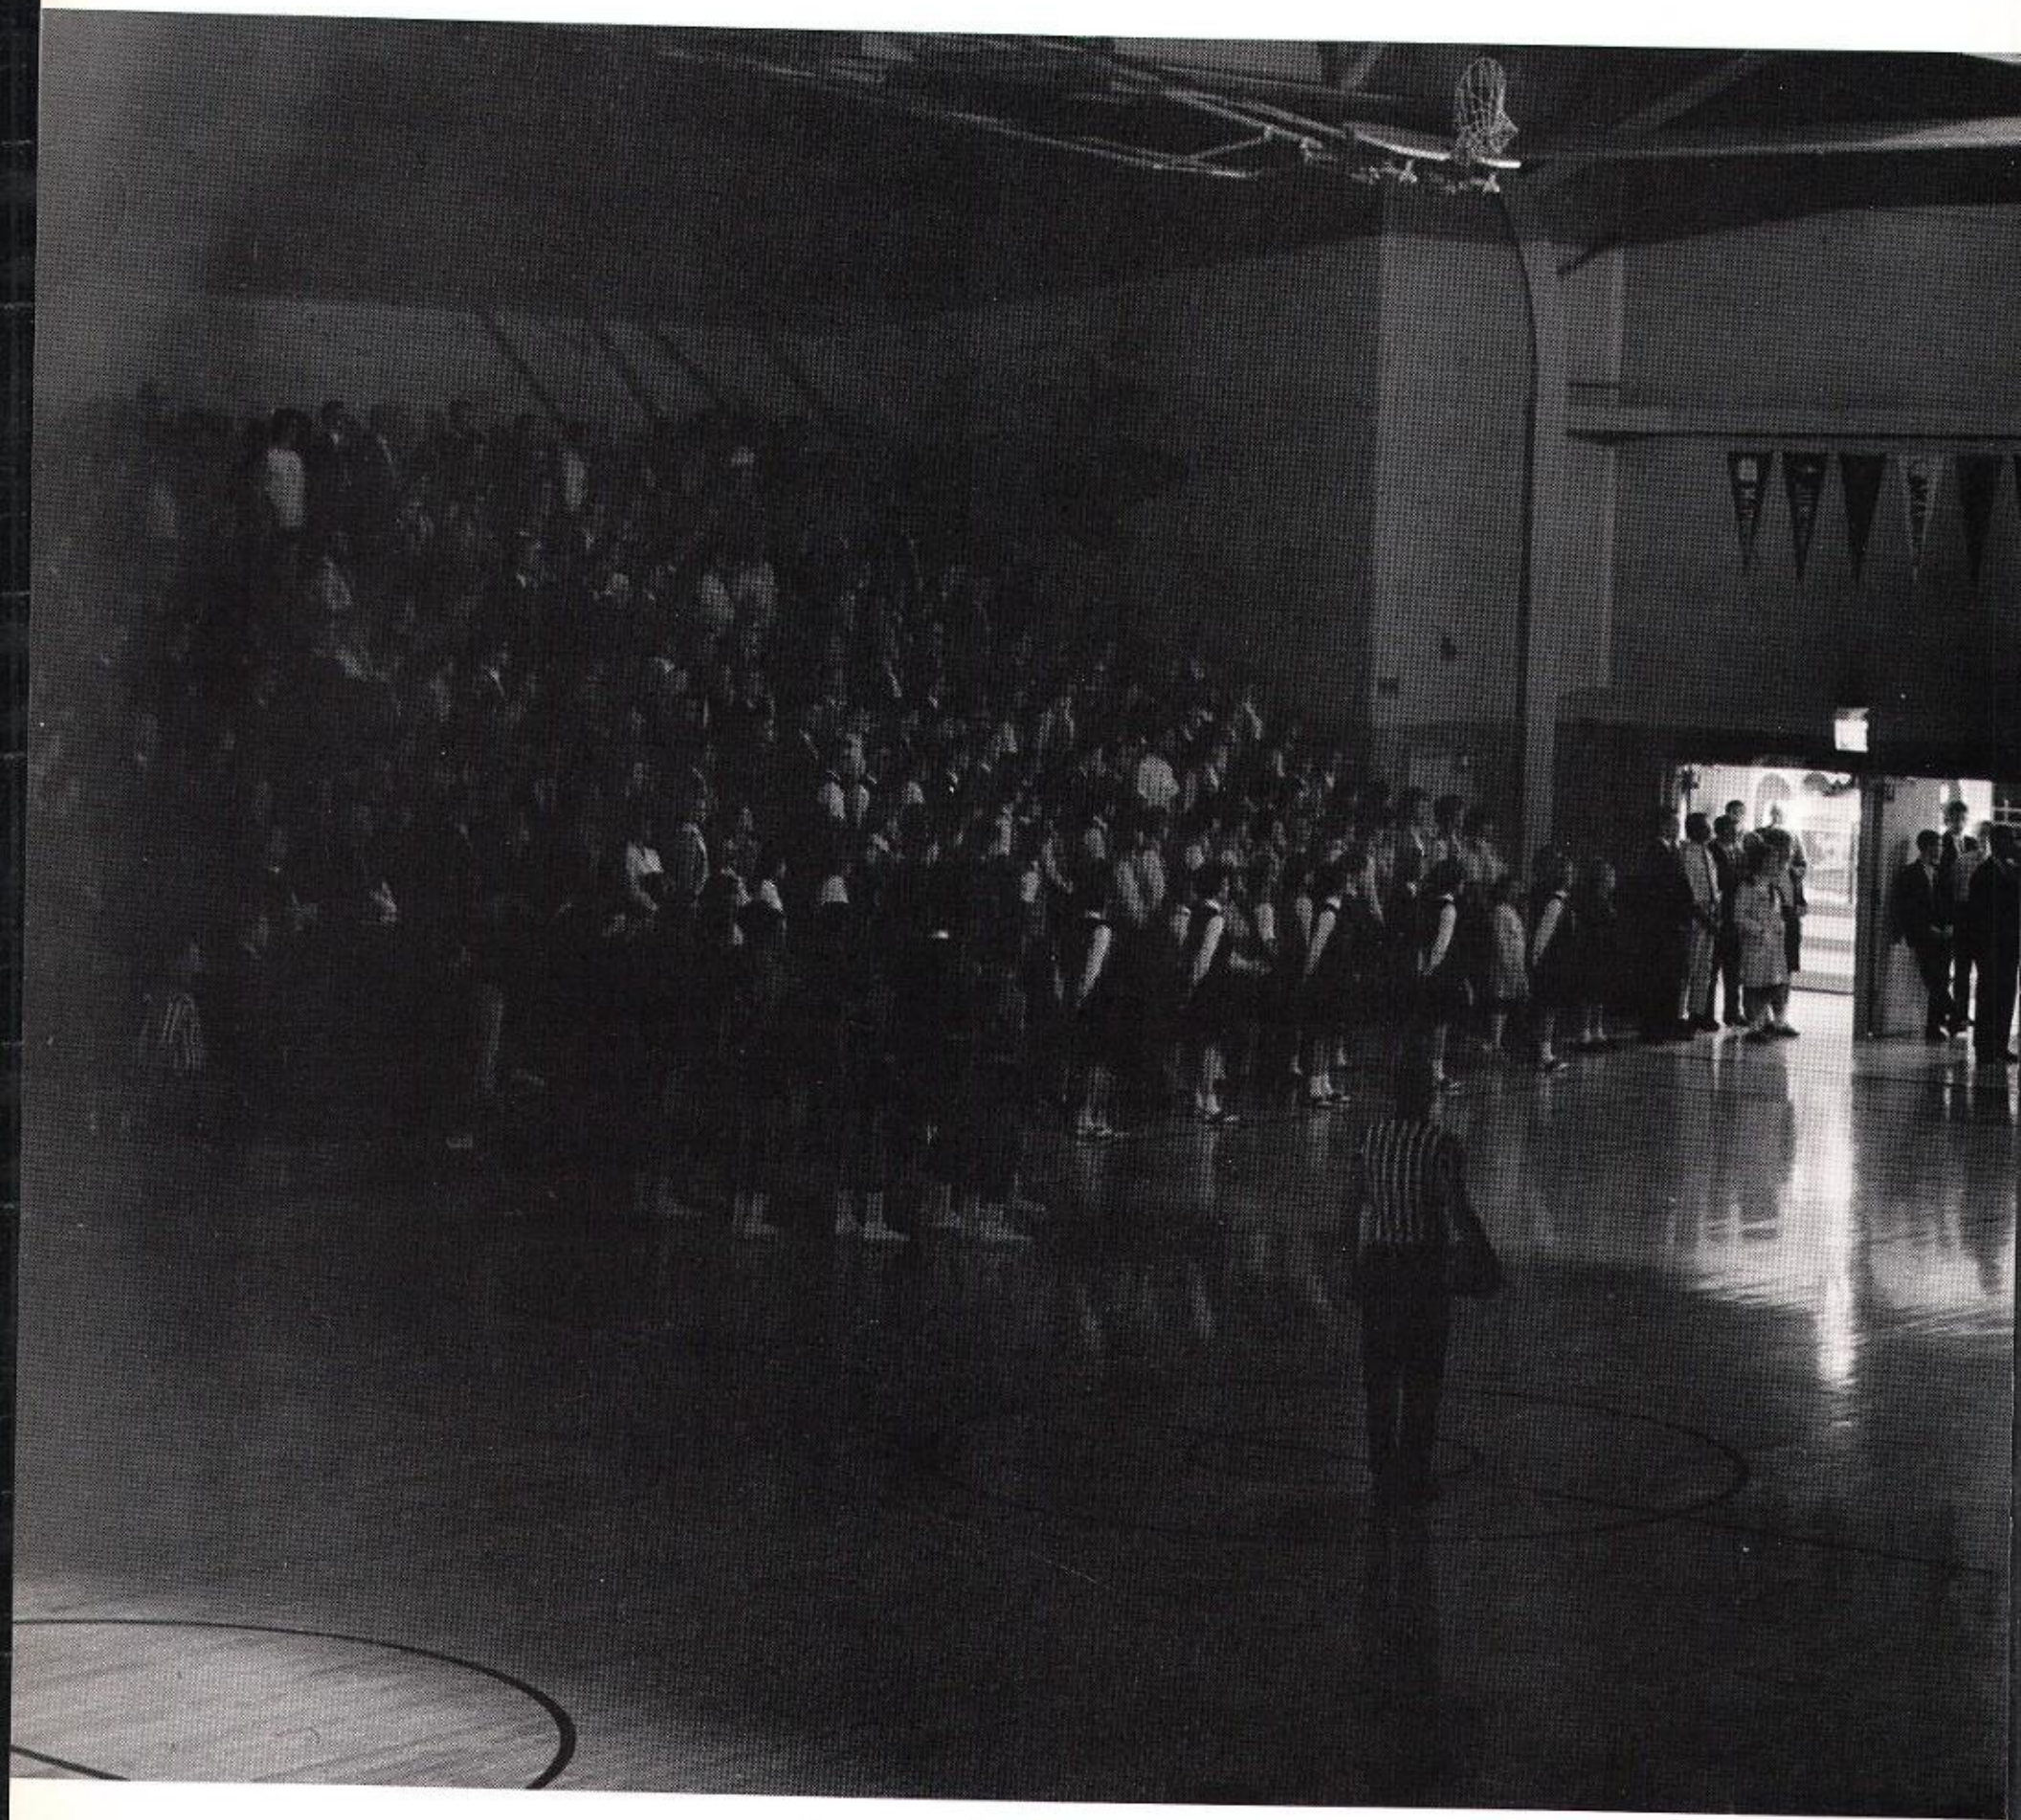

"Don't go, Annie, to her," says Sarah, one of the blind children at Perkins Institute, as Annie leaves her.

Finish 6th In CKL

Cross Country Team Takes Last Only Once

Cross country coach Raymond Hower should be given much praise for the job he does. In coaching cross country more attention must be given to the individuals because the sport stresses individualism. What made coach Hower's job especially tough this season was the fact that he had no returning letterman.

In five meets they entered this year MHS team won none. Though this may not sound so good it is interesting to note that they took last in only one meet. The only last place finish of the season came in a dual meet against Junction City.

In other meets the harriers did reasonably well. The MHS team took second place in both the Wamego and Manhattan triangulars. At the Emporia invitational MHS managed only an 11th place finish.

This year's cross country team closed out the season with the CKL meet. Manhattan could only manage a 6th place finish in the meet, which was held here at the Manhattan Country Club.

Coach Hower looks over old records and thinks of what is to come in cross country.

Bright Future Ahead

Harriers Show Spirit Despite Losing Season

The best times by the MHS harriers this year were, ironically enough, achieved by one member of each class. The best time over a two-mile course was made by junior Tom McLaughlin. Tom was also the only MHS boy who broke under the 11 minute mark. Tom recorded a fine 10:54 time. Right behind Tom were senior Eddie Blankenhagen, at 11:08, and sophomore Bill Allman who went over the course at 11:11.

Though the cross country team didn't do as well as was hoped there is a bright look for the future, as Coach Hower should get back seven lettermen.

To be a good harrier a boy needs endurance and spirit. Both of these qualities were present in this year's Manhattan cross country men.

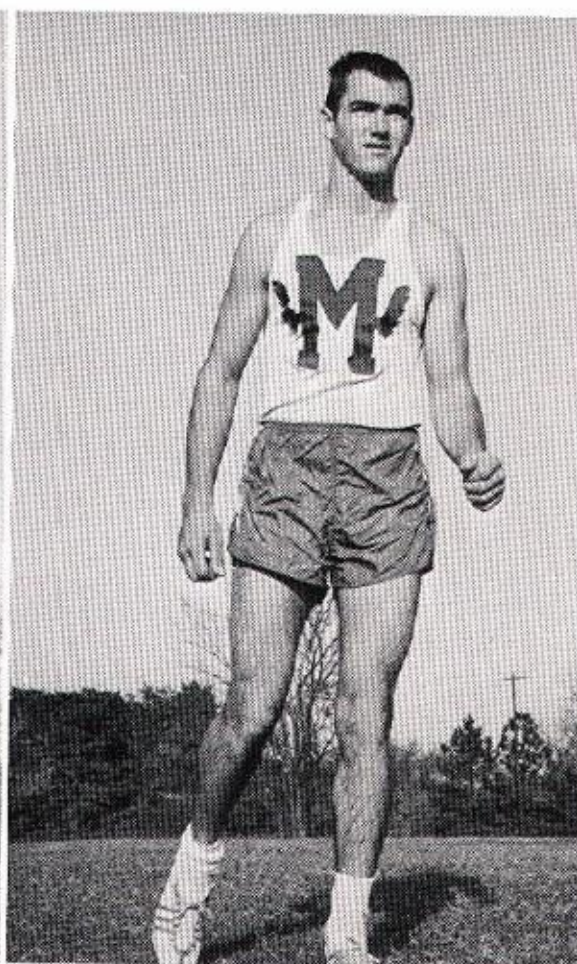

Though MHS didn't have one of its better seasons in cross country it did have one of its better group of boys. These boys also got all the individual help they could want from Coach Hower.

Hand CKL Champs Loss

Indians Start Slowly; Tie For 2nd In CKL

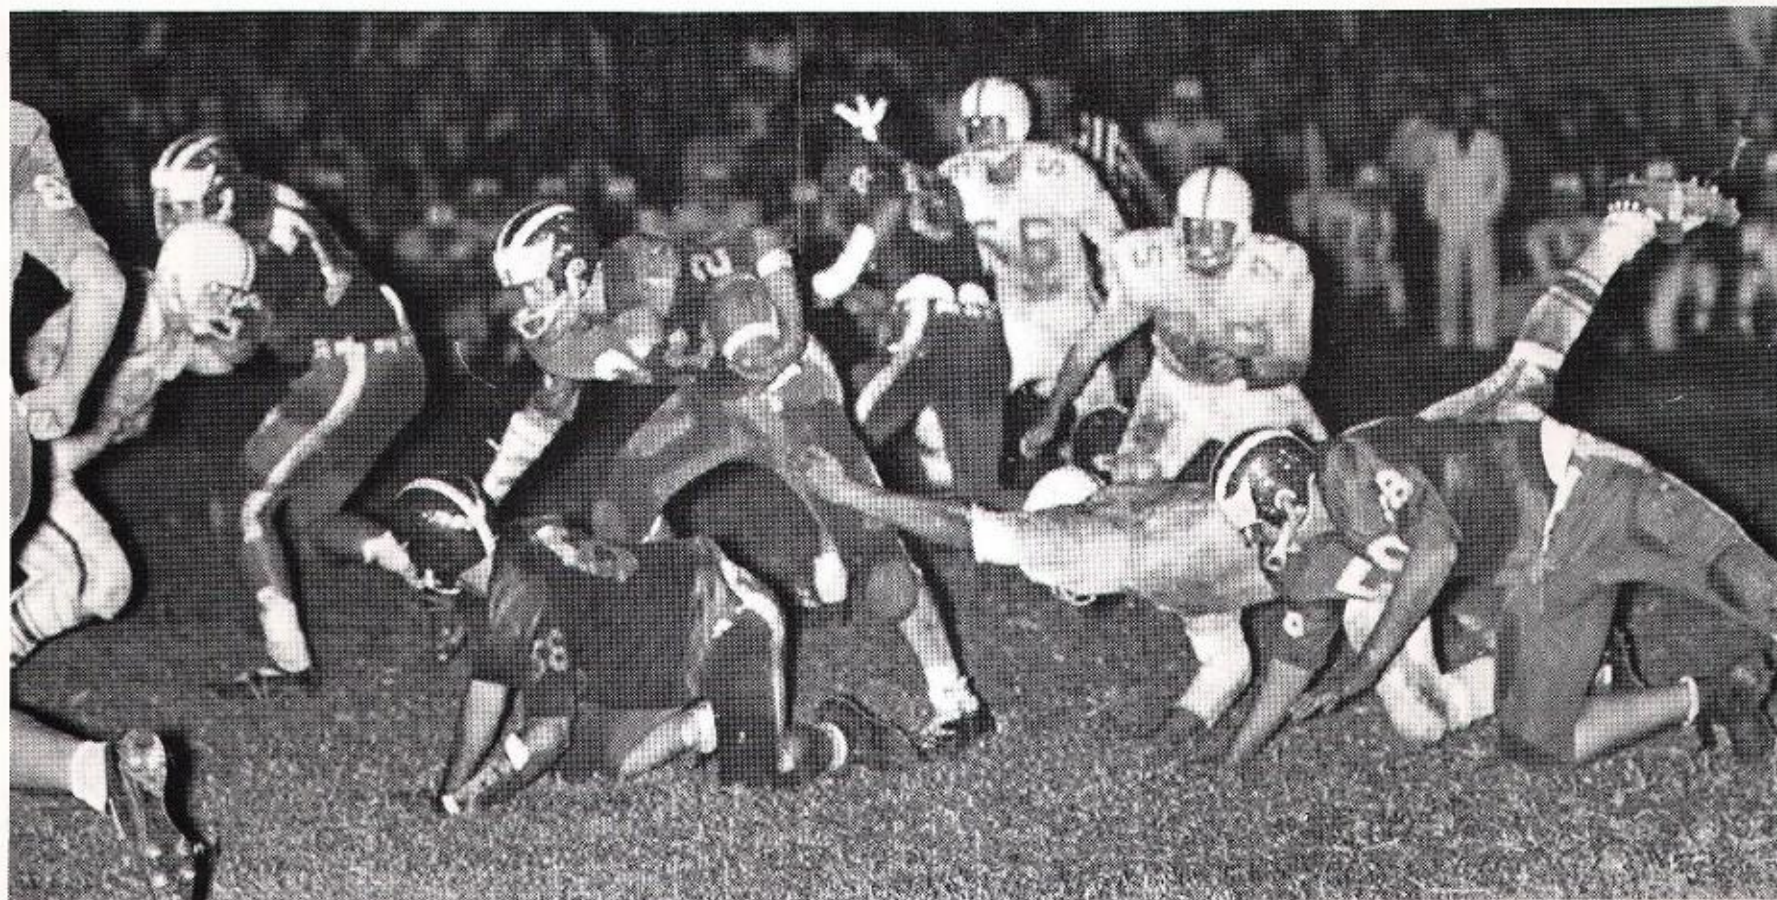

Manhattan high school's football programs acquired a new head coach and had an experienced team for the 1963 season. This combination faced up to one of the roughest schedules in the state in fine form.

Coach Earl Gritton, an assistant last year, moved up to the head coaching helm when last year's coach, Dick Towers, went to Hutchinson junior college.

This year's gridiron team got off to a slow start, but fought back to prove, to all, they had the great potential advertised before season's start.

The Indians started the year well in action against non-Central Kansas League foes. The tribe yielded to a powerful Lawrence, managed an easy win over Shawnee Heights, and tied Wichita East.

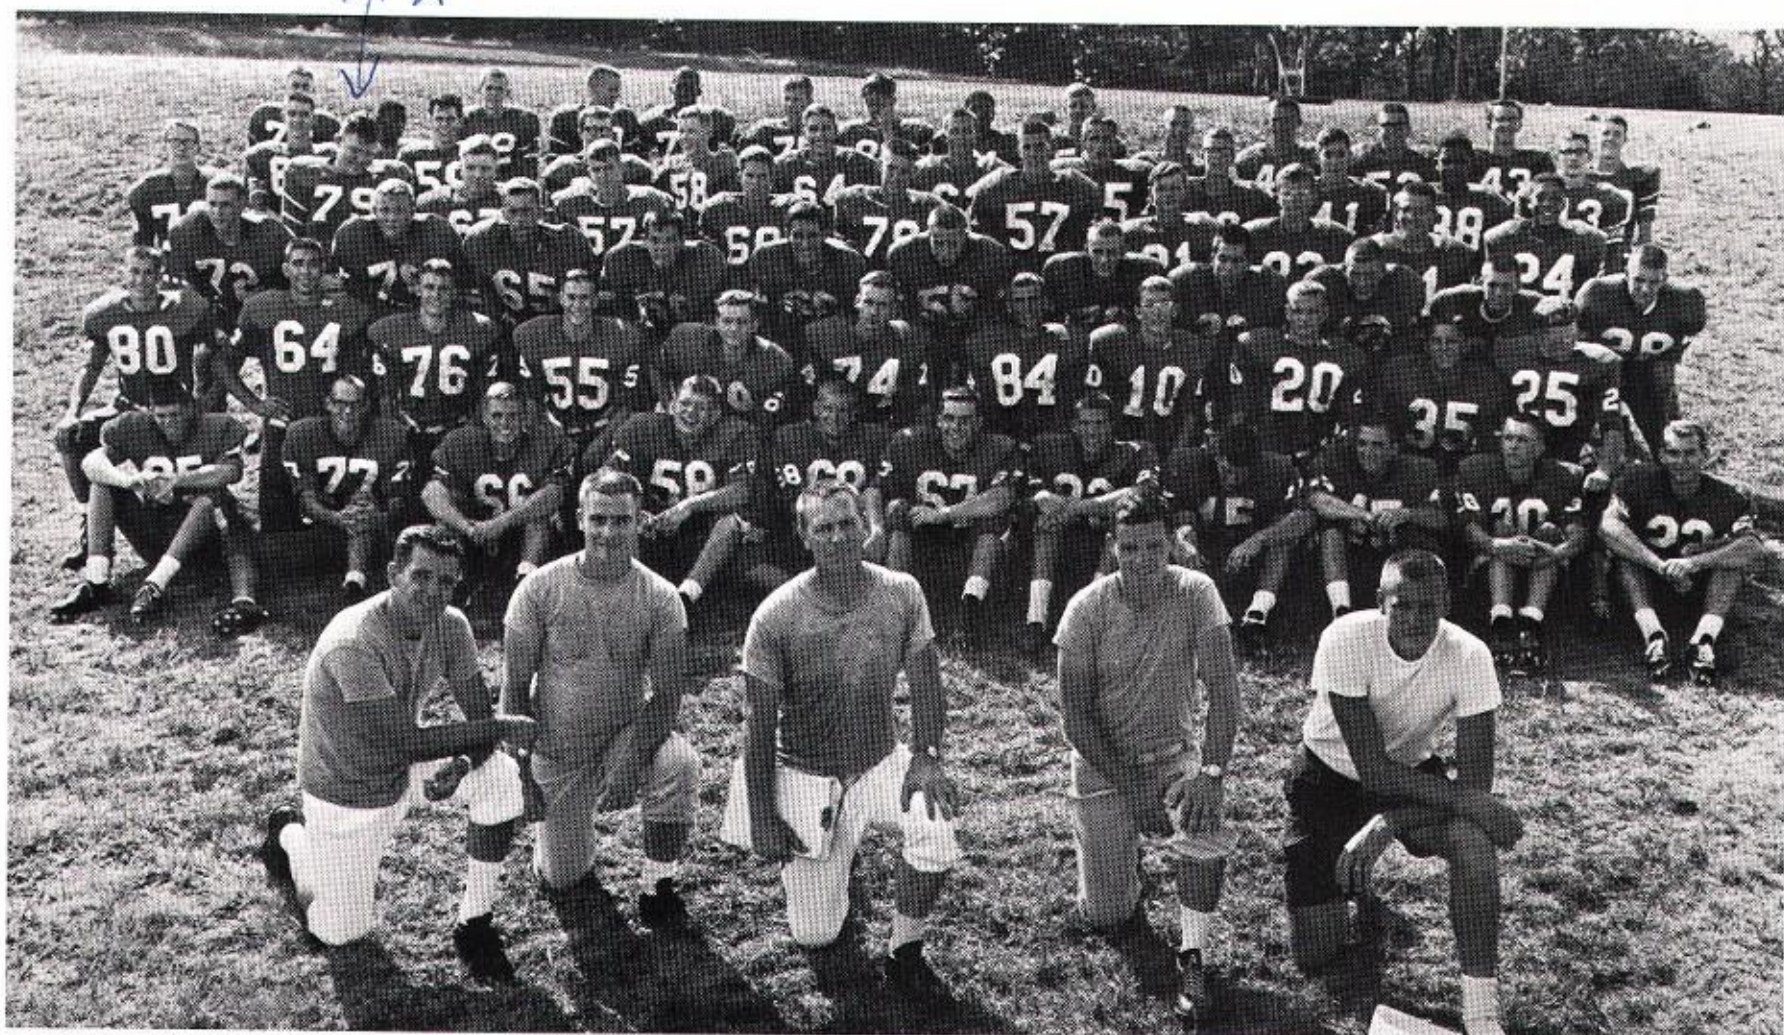

MHS opened CKL play on a sour note, losing to Junction. After this first league loss the Indians showed signs of power in beating Clay Center, CKL champs, Emporia, and Abilene. McPherson's upset, in the next game, forced MHS to settle for second place in the CKL, as they ended by beating Salina.

Ken Hamlin (77), Roger Barr (66), Dennis O'Hara (84), and Charles Bale (58), try to open up a hole for Indian Halfback Dave Becraft against Shawnee Heights, as their defense begins to tighten.

Teamwork, Leadership Developed By Indians

Successful football teams should be measured by more than their won-lost records. They should be measured also for the experience of teamwork and leadership given to the young and growing participants.

This year the MHS coaches did a top notch job in stressing teamwork and leadership.

Among the Indians who were chosen for CKL, all-area, or all-district teams were Charles Bale, Dave Becraft, Bim Bigsby, Ken Hamlin, John Shupe, Lee Schruben, and Steve Taylor.

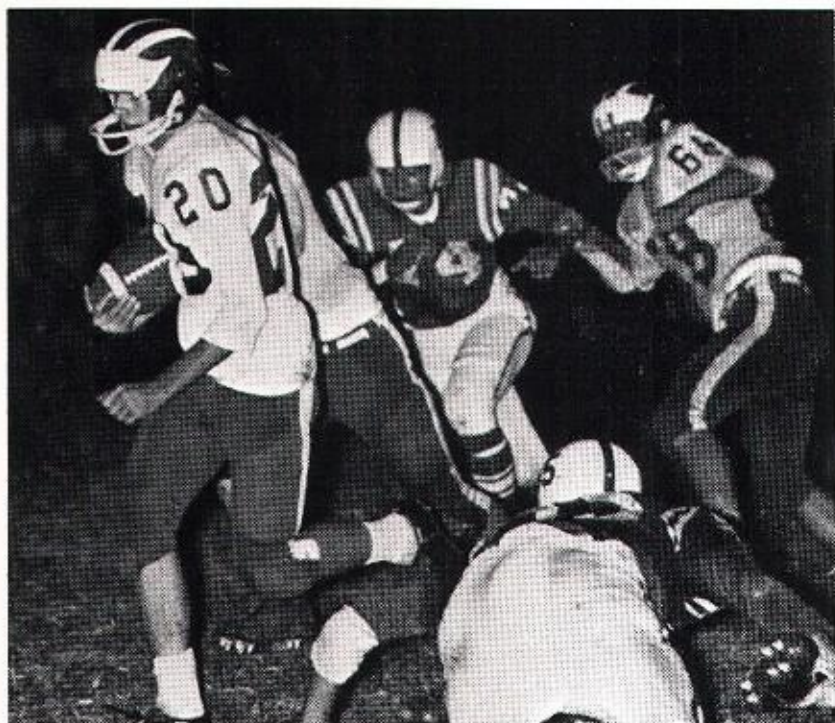

Lee Schruben, Indian guard, deserves high praise for making the first team on one all-state ballot.

Another product of MHS coaching was sophomore Doug Dodge. Doug was the only sophomore to letter.

Dave Becraft puts the pressure on a prospective Shawnee Heights receiver.

Halfback Lee Baker breaks loose for a long gain against arch-rival Junction City.

Coach Gritton gives a few pointers to some of the team during a tough practice.

Some of the Indians talk over what might come in the future season while checking out pads and other equipment.

"Practice makes perfect," this old adage was followed to a "T" by Coach Gritton and the MHS tribe.

Opposing teams found it tough to pass with Indians putting on many rushes. This sort of rush was typical for the Indians.

Who says MHS and Junction City can't get along in sports?

Dewitz and Boye get bird's eye view of game on pinnacle.

Teamwork like this helped make this year's football team one of the best in Kansas.

Players of both teams and coaches anxiously await the outcome of a measurement.

Salina Only Stumbling Block

B-Team Works Hard; Loses Only One Game

Often the future of MHS football teams depends on the B-team. Not only the future in years to come but also that of the season being played. On both counts Indian fans were given an optimistic look.

After dropping the first game to Salina the B-team won five straight and finished 5-1 for the season. In practice they were top competition for the A-team.

Coaches Dewitz, Laurie, Crawford, and Johnston did the job which brought the B-team much success.

"Not this time," seems to be what rushing Indians say by throwing Lawrence for a loss.

Good Individual Effort

Indians 3rd In CKL, Win Only Two Duals

MHS Wrestlers had a season of ups and downs. The season started with two straight wins. This fine start was followed by a string of six losses. The disappointing action in dual matches was proceeded by a fine third place finish in the CKL meet.

Indian grapplers began the season with wins over Junction City and Topeka. Following these wins MHS lost matches to Topeka West, Abilene, Salina, Clay Center, Highland Park, and Emporia. The scene was set for Manhattan's third place finish, behind Salina and Emporia, in the CKL meet.

Though the team did not do as well as it could have, coaches Gritton and Crawford had great effort from some fine individuals. Coach Gritton praised Mike Ashton, Dan Bonawitz, Jay Cloud, Max Fritz, Jim Lundberg, Henry Otto, Newton Owens, Bill Padgett, Ernest Rendleman, Lee Schruben, Bud Shirley, Phil Wendling, Steve Taylor, and Charles Smith.

15-3 Over-All

MHS Ties For CKL Second Straight Year

Defense and intelligence helped the MHS A-Team compile one of the finest records in the state.

Among honors the Indians gained during regular season play were a first place tie in the CKL, the MHS Invitational Tournament crown, and a rating as high as fourth in the state.

Coach Roy Dewitz, in his sixth season at the MHS helm, guided the Indians to a 15-3 regular season record and a tie for first in the CKL. In six years at MHS Coach Dewitz has compiled an 81-39 record. This record does not include the 1964 regional and state tournaments. The tie with McPherson in the CKL marked the second straight year Coach Dewitz led the Indians to a CKL crown tie. The Indians could have won the crown outright, had they slipped by McPherson in the last regular season game.

Ron Ruthstrom, senior, came into games many times to aid the Indian cause.

Dave Becraft often played against taller opponents, but his quickness and intelligence led to steals such as this.

Ramon Guliford, senior, played his first year in A-Team action and gained experience in all phases of basketball.

Good Balance

Opposing Teams Find Indian Defense Rugged

Only three times was the MHS defense punctured for more than 60 points. Emporia, who always seems to be at their best against Manhattan, scored more than 60 points in both of the meetings they had with the Indians. McPherson was the only other team on the MHS schedule able to surpass 60 counters.

Coach Dewitz went with the same five starters all year. The starting line up was composed of seniors John Shupe, Tom Milbourn, and Dave Becraft. The seniors were joined by juniors George Shupe and Tom Ball to complete the starting five.

Throughout the regular season the Indians functioned as one solid unit. The balance of the Indians was shown in their scoring. Four of the five starters averaged in double figures. The fifth was relatively close to the double figure average.

The Indians' balance, defense, and intelligence helped them beat some of the best teams in the state.

Against highly rated Leavenworth the Tribe proved that brains are often better than brawn.

Both McPherson and Clay Center saw their perfect records receive blemishes against the Indians.

The 1963-64 basketball season was one of the most successful seasons in MHS history.

Greg Dickerson, Doug Dodge, and Tom Ball were three of the four underclassmen on the A-Team.

Young Indian Squads Have Winning Seasons

The B-Team and Little Indians at MHS kept up with the winning trend set by the varsity.

B-Team roundballers, with Coach Laurie at their helm, compiled an impressive 14-1 season's record, losing only to the Lawrence reserves.

Coach Verschelden led the Little Indians to an 8-2 season. The sophomore team lost the first two games of the year to Junction City and Emporia, but closed the season with eight consecutive wins over some of the roughest sophomore teams in the state.

Chamber Of Commerce

Working together to build a better community, Manhattan Chamber of Commerce strives to encourage and foster public spiritedness and responsibility, to unite the efforts of all citizens of good will, to promote and protect the commercial, industrial, agricultural, educational and general interests of this community.

As an influential symbol, Chamber of Commerce has been in existence for many years. The first branch of the Chamber of Commerce was organized in New York State in the year 1768. Five years later, the first local chapter was established in Charleston, South Carolina.

The Manhattan chapter, organized in 1918, is composed of approximately 750 business and professional leaders "working together to a build a better community" for Manhattan residents.

This year's board of directors consists of 24 members who meet twice a month. The board elects officers, appoints committees, and adopts policies. These committees, in turn, make recommendations and carry out the needed actions.

Blaker Studio Royal

Blaker's Studio Royal, a "friendly business with satisfying results", is one of the foremost photography studios in Manhattan, located in Aggieville. Mr. Lawrence Blaker, main photographer and proprietor, has received national acclaim. In addition to limiting his work to residents and to taking most of the pictures for the Royal Purple, KSU's yearbook, Blaker's helped with much of the Blue-M photography.

The studio took MHS faculty and class pictures, the large division and sub-division page pictures and the pictures of the royalty. They also took many of the production shots and other miscellaneous pictures.

Mr. Blaker spent much of his time with the Blue-M photography. To help him with his work, his employee, Berton Haley, also worked many hours.

To assist the studio in keeping its deadlines with the staff, all students beginning the school year as seniors were asked to make appointments during the latter part of the summer. This way, extra time could be devoted to their graduation pictures for best results.

Mrs. Blaker and Dorothy Hostetter, Blue-M editor, discuss a new idea for a photograph in the Blue-M.

Blakers Studio Royal, located at 1200 Moro is one of the foremost photography studios in Manhattan.

The Studio Royal is an outstanding establishment in its field and assists the Blue-M staff each year.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Publishing a yearbook is a large project and to do it, the 1964 yearbook staff has had the cooperation of many people. We appreciate the willingness of the administration to help us whenever possible. The faculty has been very helpful and has allowed us to interrupt classes to take pictures. We would especially like to thank Mike Biggs who has spent many hours taking pictures and working in the darkroom so that we could meet our deadlines. Studio Royal has done an excellent job of taking numerous pictures. We are especially grateful for the "rush jobs" when we were pressed for time. The Manhattan Mercury helped us with many of the sports pictures. Our parents sometimes complained that they never saw us, but they were very understanding. We can't forget our friends who have encouraged us to make the 1964 Blue M an accurate record of an exciting year. Last, but never least, we want to thank Miss Burton, who has given us encouragement when we felt we were attacking the impossible, who has spent many hours helping type pages before deadlines, and who has always been there when we needed help.

As we close the doors
To our high school days,
We continue to strive forward,
To search for new light,
To find our dream.
